Joyce Forces Say He Confessed to Wife.

The charge that Peggy Hopkins Joyce and the Prince Viora of Albania agreed to cast off their mates, get a million or two apiece with their divorces, and then marry each other will be made, it was learned yesterday, when James Stanley Joyce's annulment suit is brought into court. The witness who will be asked to tell it, according to attorneys representing Joyce, is none other than the Princess Viora, formerly Miss Helen Kelly Gould Thomas, granddaughter of Eugene Kelly, millionaire New York banker; divorced wife of Frank J. Gould of New York, and widow of Ralph Hill Thomas, New York capitalist.

The princess, it is alleged by attorneys of the Joyce legal forces, has expressed her willingness to come here and appear before Judge Joseph Sabath. Detectives employed by Joyce to hunt the "million dollars" worth of jewels he gave Peggy learned the story in Europe. Also, they found that Peggy had hidden her jewels overseas, it was said yesterday.

Claim Prince Confessed.

These detectives say the Albanian prince made a confession to his wife and she told her story as follows: "The prince was absent for more than a week last August, and he was gone about it and made unlikely excuses. I suspected him. Then I heard he had been seen with a pretty young American actress.

"One night I was looking for a little change to wear to the opera. I went across a small jewel case in which the prince kept his treasures. I found two lace handkerchiefs.

"They were dainty things, quite expensive, and subtly perfumed. There were other souvenirs de coeur in the box, but the lace squares held my attention. The perfume was not French. It must be American. The handkerchiefs surely were American. I supposed he got them from the American actress.

The Prince On the Carpet.

"When the prince came home I asked him about those sweet smelling bits of lace. I pretended I knew a great deal more about the affair than I really did, and perhaps he thought some one had told me everything.

"Anyhow, he decided to make a confession, and began to talk.

"He said he and the actress, Peggy Joyce, had met a few weeks before, and were madly infatuated with each other—or thought they were.

"Calls Peggy 'Poor Child.'"

"The young woman did not love her husband. Poor child, she had been perfectly miserable with him! My husband vouchsafed. O yes, Peggy's husband gave her diamonds and pearls and automobiles and furs and things, but he was a nobody—a plain American millwright in the lumber business, or something of that sort.

"Joyce might be a lumber king in his own home town, but the prince was a prince of the blood royal wherever he went. I suppose the glamour of the prince fascinated the poor foolish girl, and she thought she had at last met her ideal.

"The prince broke down. He begged me not to be angry with him while he told of the plans they had made.

"Very simple."

"It was very simple. Peggy would go back to the States and sue her husband for divorce. She would get several million dollars in settlement. It would be very easy. She told the prince her husband was immensely wealthy, but that she could twirl him around her little finger with ease.

"Then, with her divorce and her American millions, she would return and marry the prince. Ah—if."

"She would marry him if it would do the generous thing—submit to a divorce and give the prince a suitable separation gift. I could make two suffering hearts happy by giving the prince a divorce and, say, a couple of millions of those nice spending American dollars.

"But the Princess Objected.

"I'm afraid I wasn't at all in favor of this. You see, I realized the poor boy was temperamental, and rather susceptible. A pretty face, you know, is a passing fancy. I was sure the infatuation would not last, and I didn't relish the idea of having my husband taken away from me.

"And if Peggy got him, could she make the poor fellow happy? One must consider many things in such a case."

FRIENDS RUSH TO WELLESLEY GIRLS' DEFENSE

Hold Penalty for Inn Party Too Severe.

Miss Helen V. Bell of 1399 North Dearborn parkway will receive her diploma from Wellesley college by mail.

The postman's services were invoked by the somber pedagogues of the exclusive eastern girls' school by way of disciplining Miss Bell for having a good time at a recent dance. She is one of four popular students who were accused of "improper behavior" at a party in the staid and conservative Wellesley inn. One, a junior, was dismissed. The others, being seniors, were allowed to graduate, but could not attend the commencement exercises.

Edict Raises a Storm.

Great is the hullabaloo which the mandate has raised. While Miss Bell is returning home with her mother and her father—William E. Bell, an official of the telephone company—many a gallant champion is fighting the girls' battle in the college town.

Prominent villagers and influential graduates are urging the authorities to rescind their action. Parents of at least one of the students threaten to bring suit for damages. The fane of another says he will take legal steps immediately, and among those who are taking a leading part in the movement in the young women's behalf is Robert H. McAdoo, son of the former treasury secretary, who is mentioned as one of those present at the party.

Costume Affair Is Cause.

It was a costume affair and some of the girls, it appears, wore "bloomers" as part of "hard times" attire. The college of the Peopledom company, man Charles N. Taylor, who lives next door to the inn, and he summoned the constabulary. A police raid followed, with horrified faculty frowns as a sequel, although officials of the inn deny there was anything objectionable in the costumes or actions of the girls.

The three other students that were dismissed are Katherine R. Hughes of Ashley, Pa.; Catherine Gos of Omaha, Neb.; and Helen W. Freeman of Madison, N. J.

55 WORKERS ILL; CITY DOCTORS HUNT PTOMAINE

Sudden illness, apparently due to ptomaine poisoning, of fifty-five employees of the Peopledom company, tooth paste manufacturers, 1104 South Wabash avenue, caused Acting Health Commissioner Koehler to order an investigation yesterday.

Forty of the employees, thirty of whom are girls, became suddenly ill with acute stomach pains and nausea at 10 o'clock Wednesday night and fifteen more who reported for work yesterday complained of similar symptoms.

Drs. Herman N. Bundesen and F. O. Tonney and James P. Kilcourse, chief of the health department food bureau, took samples of the ice, water, and vial croquettes served at the company's restaurant Wednesday noon to the laboratories for analysis.

Mrs. J. B. Murphy Suffers Relapse; May Not Recover

Mrs. John B. Murphy, widow of the famous surgeon, is critically ill in Mercy hospital, as the result of an operation which she underwent a fortnight ago. She became ill while visiting the grave of her husband on Memorial day. Her recovery seemed assured until she suffered a relapse Wednesday.

WHAT THEY WOULD LIKE TO DO

MRS. FAIRBANK'S BROADWAY PLAY HERE NEXT FALL

The title of Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank's new play is "The End of the World." It is coming to Chicago late in the fall, according to the prediction of Adolph Klausner, who will produce it in New York City. It is described as an ultra modern social comedy.

Miss Jane Cowi was given the manuscript and she sent it to Mr. Klausner, her husband, for consideration. At that time, Miss Cowi says, she did not know Mrs. Fairbank, her friend, had written it.

What's the plot?

Mr. Klausner said it couldn't be told as yet.

"This is one of those plays that must be kept secret until the opening night," Mr. Klausner says. "Some one else would grab the idea and put it on. You know how it is—look at the bedroom farces that resulted from 'Fair and Warner' and 'Twin Beds.'"

"The play will not be started in Chicago, though that might seem the best place of all. But Mrs. Fairbank wants the piece to have a quiet debut when she would rather have unbiased judgment, the opinion of audiences that never heard of her."

HISTORIC FUR EXCHANGE CLOSES OWING $14,000,000

St. Louis, Mo., June 16.—The peaking of the International Fur exchange, at which some of the largest auctions in the history of the trade were held, was announced this afternoon following a conference between bankers and officers of the exchange.

The exchange, it was announced recently, was indebted approximately $14,000,000 to banks in New York and St. Louis and on June 2 it was said there would be no further extensions of these loans. Depression in the fur market was ascribed as the cause of the company's indebtedness.

The exchange was incorporated for $7,500,000. At some of the auctions, of two weeks' duration, as high as $25,000,000 of pelts were sold.

AMERICAN LAWS HIT EMIGRANTS; 3,000 STRANDED

ANTWERP, June 16.—The new American immigration laws are causing congestion at the port of Antwerp, especially as regards Poles, a number of whom are being left behind by each steamer and are unable to find a shelter.

The steamer Kroonland, which sailed June 12 and was due to take 850 emigrants, carried only 230.

There are now more than 3,000 emigrants here virtually stranded.

Fred Busse Farm to Be Salvation Army Home

Waukegan, Ill., June 16.—[Special.]—The 333 acre farm owned by the late Mayor Fred Busse of Chicago has been obtained by the Salvation Army as a site for a home for boys and girls where they can be taught farming, housekeeping, and trades. It is intended to house 200 children at this home.

"GHOST" OUT OF SEA GOES TO CELL

Deported Alien Guilty of Robbing Mails.

Robert A. Buckner, international confidence man, mail thief, and globe trotter, who was deported in 1920 as an undesirable citizen and later reported drowned in the North sea, "returned from the grave" yesterday and threw himself on the mercy of Judge Landis. The judge, rewarded his seal by sending him to Leavenworth for ten years. He was charged with stealing from the mails.

Labored under the impression that Buckner was dead, postal authorities were startled several days ago when they found his signature on a check for $135 stolen from the mails. Chief Albert Germer called a hasty conference. Buckner was found.

Landis Also Surprised.

Judge Landis rubbed his eyes when Buckner appeared.

"I thought this man had been deported," he said.

"It's worse than that," spoke up Inspector Thiele, "he was drowned in the North sea; according to our records, he's dead."

"He looks alive to me," said the judge.

"To begin with," answered Thiele, "here's his record. It shows he has four aliases, that he is a German citizen and that he has been a guest at least six times in state and federal penitentiaries. He was deported in 1920."

"Rescued from Sea."

"How did you get back?" queried the judge, turning to Buckner.

"I was rescued from the sea," explained Buckner. "I told the Spanish consul general in Germany that I was an American. He got me a job on an American ship."

"Humm," mused the judge. "You must like the United States pretty well." And then he sentenced him.

"Let the record show," snapped the judge, turning to Joe Sullivan, his veteran clerk, that he was sent to Leavenworth penitentiary for ten years.

TWO BIG HOTELS ANNOUNCE NEW CUT IN PRICES

Two Chicago hotels, the Morrison and Sherman, yesterday announced a reduction of room prices amounting to 20 and 25 per cent, to take effect Monday. Harry Moir, manager and owner of the Morrison, stated the 20 per cent cut would affect restaurant prices as well. Rooms which previously cost $5 and $7 a day will cost $4 and $5.

Ernest Bifield, secretary and treasurer of the Sherman, says the 25 per cent reduction there will mean a room and bath for $2.

Announcement of the reductions did not create much stir at other hotels. The manager of the La Salle said: "Well, they haven't got down to our prices yet."

"It's about time they made some reductions," was the comment of the Hotel Congress management. "We've been reducing restaurant prices as the market went down, and our room reduction went into effect some time ago."

Retail clothing stores throughout the country have taken a depreciation of from 25 to 50 per cent on men's clothing, hats, and furnishings, according to statistics gathered by the National Association of Retail Clothing, and have marked down their goods accordingly.

Suits that during the war ranged from $17.50 to $22.50 now sell from $7.50 to $17.50, the figures show.

HOUSE MEMBER CALLS ON SMALL TO QUIT OFFICE

Deals to "Put Over" Legislation Charged

Status of Legislation

The situation in the legislature last night with reference to leading measures was:

Public Utilities—Senator Daley forced through an amendment giving right of appeal from "home rule" authorities to state commission. Senate still working on measure.

Tax Commission—This measure will be fought out on the floor tonight. Lundin and Small still lack a few votes.

Chicago Tax Rate—Senate decides to let Chicago tax rate be $1.55.

Sanitary District—Senate passes house sanitary district bill.

Roads—Meents road bill passed by house.

Workmen's Compensation—House passes bill already passed by senate.

Boxing—Senate accepts Daley amendment for state-wide referendum.

The senate is in an all night session, but the house adjourned at 1 a. m.

Springfield, Ill., June 16.—[Special.]

—Direct charges of "graft and corruption" were made tonight on the floor of the house in connection with the state administration's bill to kill state civil service.

Representative John A. McNeil of Olney, Democrat, made the charges and demanded that Gov. Small either discharge Julius Johnson, secretary of the state utilities commission, tomorrow morning or that Gov. Small resign his office as governor.

The bill was ordered to third JULIUS JOHNSON.

Reading after a test vote resulted in defeat of the opposition. Motion to adopt the O'Grady amendment knocking out the enacting clause was lost, 70 to 72.

Charges Made by McNeil.

The direct charges made by Representative McNeil were these:

1. That Representative Searcy, Republican and Representative Barber, Democrat, of the Springfield district, were told that, in return for their votes for the tax commission bill and for the civil service bill, "four lines will be killed in the omnibus bill."
2. That Representative Searcy, Democrat, of the Springfield district, was told that, in return for their votes for the tax commission bill and for the civil service bill, "four lines will be killed in the omnibus bill."
3. That he himself had been approached by Julius Johnson, secretary of the public utilities commission, and told that he could have a pending case in Wabash county "attended to properly" if he would vote for the civil service bill.
4. That Representative Searcy, Republican, of the Springfield district, was told that, in return for their votes for the tax commission bill and for the civil service bill, "four lines will be killed in the omnibus bill."

"I have Johnson's proposition here in his own handwriting," Representative McNeil said. "There is enough taint, corruption, and stench here to murder this bill and his lieutenant administration. Johnson ought to be fired tomorrow morning or Gov. Small ought to resign."

Small Deserted by Tice.

Representative Homer J. Tice, who has been one of the administration supporters during the session, produced a profound sensation when he served notice that he was through.

"I have personal knowledge of what has been tried tonight and particularly by this man Johnson," he said. "I now say to Gov. Small and his lieutenants here that I am through. It's too strong for me and I can't stomach it."

The fight on the floor for the advancement of the bill was led by Representative Holiday of Danville. Browne, Fahy, Lager, and Lyman were the Democrats who voted with the administration.

The Republicans who voted against the administration were: Byers, Casle, Church, Cruden, Douglas, Frisch, Glinders, Kauffman, Laporte, Lindstrom, Lyon, McCabe, Mueller, Searcy, Shanahan, Shearer, Steiner, Thon, Tourillout, Vico, West. Representative Holiday changed his vote from "aye" to "no" after the roll had been completed.

Senate Kicks Hole in Small's Utilities Bill

Springfield, Ill., June 17.—[Special.]—The state senate early this morning made so big a change in the Small-Lundin state utilities bill that the measure just now seems as good as dead.

By a viva voce vote it adopted an amendment striking at the vitals of the "home rule" section. This provides that where a city has voted itself out from under the jurisdiction of the proposed "commerce commission" an appeal from the rulings of the city council may be taken to the state commission. In other words, it is the state body and not the municipal that would have the real power of fixing rates.

A strong fight was made against the amendment which was presented by Senator John Daley. A motion to table it was defeated, 22 to 28, and the viva voce adoption followed.

Senator Daley started out by attempting to strike out the whole "home rule" article, but was beaten by a vote of 35 to 14 on a motion to table.

Goes Into the Hopper.

But after his second, or appeal, amendment succeeded, the amendments of the utilities committee were adopted. The net result is that the bill will go into the eleventh hour conference mill and possibly will get no further.

Earlier in the night session Senator Samuel A. Ettelson delivered what Senator Frank P. Sadler described as a campaign speech and "bunk shooting." Senator Ettelson said the bill, instead of being a "bright home rule bill," was an attempt to keep the slogan alive for future campaigns.

Senator William S. Jewell spoke of the bad telephone service in Lewis-town, but when he said that the state voted for home rule last fall he was challenged.

"In eighty-five downstate counties," said Senator Clarence Buck, "you were beaten on that platform by 95,000 majority."

Points to a Joker.

Senator Daley wound up the argument, and after answering the opponents of his amendments, condemned Mayor Thompson's transportation bill. "They were jammed through the senate when it was discovered that under those bills the holders of a mortgage on a traction system under control of a transportation district might foreclose and not only take the tangible property but gain a perpetual franchise. If those bills had gone through here the same way they did through the house this legislature would have stamped itself with everlasting infamy."

AGREEMENT ON PEACE NOT LONG DELAYED, BELIEF

Washington, D. C., June 16.—[Special.]—Still more delay in restoring peace with Germany was encountered today. Because of the death of Representative Mason of Illinois, the house adjourned without transacting business and the motion to send the peace resolution to conference was again held up.

Sensors Lodge and Knox, Republican members of the conference committee representing the senate, and Representatives Porter, Pennsylvania, and Rogers, Massachusetts, who are likely to represent the house Republicans on the conference, held a meeting today to discuss the differences between the two resolutions.

Although no decisions were made the conference expressed the opinion that an agreement would not be long delayed.

Crippled German Soldiers Parade Streets in Protest

BERLIN, June 16.—[By the Associated Press.]—Several hundred crippled soldiers in the Charlottenburg hospital, who were ordered to other hospitals because they played cards and made considerable noise throughout the night, decided to obey the order. Today they formed a procession and paraded the streets on crutches and in wheel chairs, carrying placards protesting against the government's action, which they called a "hunger lock-out."

Chicago Merchant Killed by Auto in Minneapolis

St. Paul, Minn., June 16.—H. Borovsky, 55, said to be a retired merchant of Chicago, was killed tonight by an automobile while getting off a street car in Minneapolis. His widow and one son, Dr. Maxwell Borovsky of Chicago, survive.

Mrs. James T. Harahan in Hospital for Consultation

Mrs. James T. Harahan, widow of the president of the Illinois Central railroad, entered St. Luke's hospital yesterday for a consultation. The nature of her ailment could not be learned.

BRITISH WAR VETERAN SLAYS MRS. J. I. ENNIS

Ex-Ring Champion Ends Own Life.

Mrs. Margaret Ennis, 72 years old, wealthy stepmother of Callistus S. Ennis Sr., millionaire real estate dealer, was shot and killed in her apartment house at 6158 Greenwood avenue late yesterday afternoon by Thomas Smyth, a sergeant in the British army, well known soccer football player, and former pugilist champion of Ireland.

After killing Mrs. Ennis Smyth placed the revolver to his temple and blew out his brains.

The double slaying, the police say, was the result of an insane and unfounded jealousy inspired by Harry T. McInerney, a plumber and a married man, who was a roomer at Mrs. Ennis' flat.

Victim About to Leave City.

The crime was committed on the eve of Mrs. Ennis' departure to Kansas City, Mo., to make her future residence with a sister, William Line. Mrs. Ennis, the widow of James I. Ennis, noted Chicago lawyer, was born in North Ireland, and was a member of a wealthy family of the name of Minnehan. She met Smyth, also born in North Ireland, shortly after the latter's return, wounded and bedeviled, from the world war. Smyth applied to her for work as a janitor. She gave him a room in her apartment rent free.

Wounded in Far East Battle.

Mrs. Ennis at that time, according to neighbors, was greatly interested in relief work for returned soldiers. Smyth was suffering from shrapnel wounds and shell shock sustained in a Mesopotamian battle while he was a sergeant in the Royal engineers.

Mrs. Ennis then was the owner of the apartment building at 6158-59 Greenwood avenue, and lived in an apartment on the second floor. This building she sold on March 16 to Mrs. O. M. Woods, a neighbor, for $75,000, receiving $1,000 in cash.

Smyth continued to room with Mrs. Ennis until about two months ago. He spent much of his time at the Public Health hospital, 47th street and Drexel boulevard, where he was under treatment.

Frequently after that he was seen walking up and down in front of the Ennis apartment; once he climbed a tree and spied upon the occupants.

Menaces Supposed "Rival."

About two weeks ago he met McInerney on the street and threatened him with a revolver, the latter says, declaring that he "had a good mind to kill" him.

McInerney appealed to the police. Judge Howard Hayes released Smyth on a peace bond—his own recognizance being the bond.

Following this incident Attorney Coburn and relatives appealed to Mrs. Ennis to leave Chicago for a time, fearing Smyth would attempt revenge. Mrs. Ennis consented, rented the apartment she was occupying and packed her belongings. A sister living in St. Louis, she was to arrive in Chicago today to accompany her to Kansas City.

Girl Sees Death Quarrel.

Shortly after 3:30 yesterday afternoon Smyth appeared at the rear of the Ennis apartment building. He walked up to the second floor and engaged in conversation with Mrs. Ennis. A few minutes later the latter called to Miss Dorothy Post, who lives in the apartment above that which Mrs. Ennis was vacating.

Miss Post ran downstairs.

"Smyth was standing there talking in a loud tone to Mrs. Ennis," she said. "He appeared to be drunk. Mrs. Ennis was asking him to go away—she didn't want him hanging around. He told her to go inside. She refused. 'His manner was so threatening I ran upstairs. As I was going I saw him grab her by the wrist and pull her inside the kitchen. Then came four shots."

"I screamed, ran to the telephone, and notified the police. Then I ran downstairs. Mrs. Anna Bixton, who lives with me, came with me.

"We ran inside Mrs. Ennis' apartment and there on the floor were the bodies of Mrs. Ennis and Smyth. Both were dead. Mrs. Ennis had been shot twice. Smyth had been shot once in the right temple.

"Mrs. Ennis once told me she had been a widow for forty-one years. She said her husband was James Ennis, a lawyer. Her husband had nine children before he married her. She had only one child by Ennis, a boy—Juvenius. I think she said his name was. This boy died fourteen years ago.

"Mrs. Ennis always attended to her own business affairs, collecting rents and the like."

HOUSE READY FOR FINAL BOUT ON TAX COMMISSION

Lacks Eight Votes on Eve of Battle.

BY E. O. PHILLIPS.

Springfield, Ill., June 15.—[Special.]—The tax commission bill is to be fought out on the floor of the house tomorrow. Agreement to this effect was reached late tonight. The odds are against the passage of the bill, which centers assessing powers in a state commission of small's selection and takes the power from the boards of review and local assessing bodies.

The house revenue committee is to meet at 9 a. m. to consider the bill. It is to come out with an unfavorable report, according to the latest stack-up of the committee. This means that Gov. Small, Mr. Lundin, and Mayor Thompson will have to register seven affirmative votes to place the bill on the calendar on the order of second reading.

The outlook is that the administration will lack between five and ten votes enough to do the job, though the situation may change.

WOMAN WORTH $150,000

According to Attorney Coburn, Mrs. Ennis was married a number of years ago to a man of the name of Sinnemaker. They lived together for about a year and were divorced.

"Sinnemaker was after her money—he got some of it," Attorney Coburn declared. "Mrs. Ennis was one of the sweetest and most gentle women I have ever known. Just a few days ago I asked her to make her will, and she consented to do so, but never did."

"She called me up at noon today and said she would come down tomorrow to see me about the purchase of a judgment against the county for $125,000 that she had in mind."

"I would judge that her resources amounted to $150,000. She always had plenty of ready cash."

"Never in Love with Smyth."

"She never was in love with Smyth. She spoke to me several times regarding his actions and I advised her to get rid of him. He had an insane notion that they were engaged to be married."

Joe Davis, Tribune golf editor, was a close friend of Smyth.

"I had known him for the last sixteen years," he said. "He didn't look to be the kind of man who would do a thing like that. It must have been that his mind failed him."

"Smyth came to this country in 1900 as a boxer in charge of 'Pete' Maher. He never landed the match, however. He had belonged to many soccer football associations in Chicago and was well known to adherents of that game."

"He has a check-book with somewhere in Chicago—I think it's working in a department store. They never got along well together, although Smyth seemed to think a lot of her."

Smyth 57; Victim 72.

Smyth was born in 1844, according to his army discharge papers. Mrs. Ennis is 72, according to Callistus S. Ennis Sr., her stepson.

"I haven't known her very well of late," Mr. Ennis said. "Since my father died, forty-one years ago, she haven't kept track of her very much. She has never been at my house and I've only been at hers once—that was when my half-brother, Juvenius, her only child by my father, died fourteen years ago."

When the world war began Smyth was more than 60 years of age. He tried to enlist in the United States army but failed. Then he went to Canada and joined the Royal Engineers. He rose to lance corporal, then to sergeant. He was sent into the Mesopotamian campaign. There, in the words of an English journal, "the Germans sent a disturber or two along, resulting in Tom and a few of his pals going up in the air, which damaged him to such an extent that he is not moving about very freely yet."

Smyth came back to this country and was receiving sick pay and a pension from the Canadian government.

SMYTH NOTED BOXER

Smyth was well known as a boxer and soccer football player, both in Chicago and abroad. Among his effects the police last night found many reminiscences of this side of his life. There were more than a hundred clippings telling of his fights, letters, the opening chapters of an autobiography.

Smyth was a former member of the Soccer Association of Chicago; at one time he was entered as contestant in a series of amateur boxing bouts given in the Coliseum.

Professionally he had gained the lightweight championship of Ireland by 1909, coming to this country in that year to gain a match with "Pete" Maher. Among his effects were found several medals won in fights.

In sport circles Smyth also appeared as an inventor of an automatic racing timer. In clippings from Chicago papers this device is spoken of as receiving successful trials at Central Y. M. C. A. and the West Side Driving park.

MUNICIPAL BEACHES OPEN

Chicago's public bathing beaches were thrown open to the public yesterday and hundreds of persons took advantage of the opportunity for a dip into the lake. The above picture shows Marion Callon and Jane Halberkon, two of the young patrons of the beach, enjoying themselves in the water.

Springfield, Ill., June 15.—[Special.]—The Chicago city tax rate is to be $1.85—a raise of 52 cents. This was determined by the senate at the end of a fight this morning in which senators left nothing unsaid as to the political situation in Chicago.

MASON DIES IN CONGRESS WHERE HE LONG SERVED

Noted Campaigner Yields to Brief Illness.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., June 15.—[Special.]—Representative William E. Mason, congressman-at-large from Illinois and former United States senator, died here today in his apartment at the Congress Hall hotel. He was 71 years old.

Heart failure caused his death. He became seriously ill about a week ago, but rallied and was believed to be on the road to recovery when he suffered a relapse today.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon announced the death of Mr. Mason to the house immediately after it convened today. The house then adjourned without transacting any business.

Eulogized in Senate Resolution.

A resolution expressing sorrow and sympathy was offered in the senate by Senator McCormick of Illinois and adopted unanimously.

It is expected that the funeral party will leave for Illinois tomorrow or early Saturday for Illinois.

Representative Yates, the other congressman at large from Illinois, issued a statement eulogizing his colleague.

"It was his disposition to not only be devoted to duty but also to be the friend of the downtrodden, the oppressed, the 'under dog'."

The tortured Cuban in 1918 was the recipient of his strenuous efforts. His reputation, won in the house, helped to establish him at once.

Mr. Mason was a persistent advocate of the rural free delivery bill, and championed all bills favoring the rights of labor and attacking trusts and combinations of capital. He was one of the first to advocate the freeing of Cuba.

Champions Irish Republic.

After his defeat for reelection to the senate in 1907 he was out of congress for a number of years. He came back as congressman-at-large for Illinois, but himself over without an organization.

Without money, without even a headquarters, he was twice elected—first with the aid of the Thompson-Lundin crowd, with which he affiliated.

Following the war Congressman Mason became one of the active champions of the Irish republic, and was the author of resolutions directing American recognition of that republic, and the exchange of diplomatic and consular representatives.

In 1875 Mason married Miss Edith Julia White of Des Moines, Ia., and they had seven children. The Mason home has pictures in a stained glass window.

There are many, perhaps, who will point to Mason's war record and call him anything but patriot. The G. A. R., the Loyal Legion, preachers, editors, and fellow members of congress thundered at him, but did not move him. He opposed the declaration of war, the draft, the taking of national guard troops to France. His attitude was somewhat in line with Thompson's. However, he pointed to a son on the firing line to show that at the last he worked for the prosecution of the war.

Much Ado About Kidnaped Girl, Who Just Elopel

While on her way to work yesterday Rose Lombardo, 18, was kidnaped by five men. As she left her home at 1734 Larabee street an automobile and a motorcycle drew up. Her mother saw the men seize Rose, saw her struggle, saw the machine dash away with her.

Shortly afterwards four arrests were made. Detectives were on the trail of Rose. Then the telephone rang in the Lombardo home.

"Hello, mother," said a faint voice. "I'm at Crown Point. Sam Dugo and I just got married."

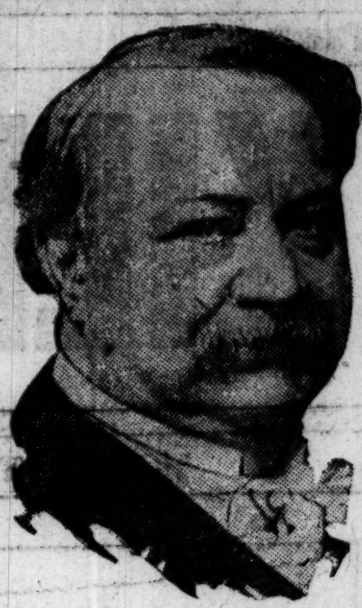

Teaches School at 15.

Mason was 15 when his father died. He was thrown on his own resources. He got a job teaching school at Bear Creek and after he had thrashed the biggest boy had little difficulty. In 1889 he went to Des Moines, Ia., and began studying law in the office of Thomas Wetmore, who 4000 after was appointed general solicitor of a railroad, and moved to Chicago. Mason came with him, remained in his office a year, then studied in the office of John N. Jewett. He was admitted to the bar when he was 21 years old, was elected to the Illinois legislature before he was 30, and was elected state senator in 1882.

It was in these years that Mason became known around the stump circuit as an orator, a humorist, a story teller. When he would walk out upon the platform and shake his long black hair and lift his eyebrows, shrug his shoulders, and start in telling yarns—there was nothing to it.

Begins Career in Congress.

He was elected to congress in 1889 and was reelected for the second term. But on his third attempt he was buried in a Democratic landslide.

Five years later, in 1897, he was elected to the United States senate by the Illinois legislature by a strict party vote, receiving 125 votes against 78 for John P. Altgeld.

He became a spectacular figure in the senate, taking first rank as a ready debater. His reputation, won in the house, helped to establish him at once.

ESSINGTON BILL MAY BE KILLED IN CONFERENCE

Springfield, Ill., June 15.—[Special.]—The agricultural interests in the house this morning destroyed the pending Essington bill, that was intended to create an anti-trust law in Illinois.

By a vote of 75 to 49, all farming interests were excluded. The senate will not accept this amendment, on the ground that it makes the bill unconstitutional. The bill probably will die in conference.

U. S. FRIENDSHIP PAWN IN WORLD GAME OF CHESS

Alliance on Yap.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING,
Washington, D. C., June 16.—[Special.]—On the eve of the meeting of the league of nations council to discuss the mandate issue raised by the United States and the meeting of the British imperial conference, which will discuss renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, Washington has become the center of a great international game of diplomatic chess.

The British self-governing dominions, fearful of the further aggrandizement of Japan, are far from enthusiastic over a renewal of the alliance. Some of them have questioned to what extent they should commit themselves to British "entangling alliances," and all of them insist that the alliance, if renewed, shall not be inimical to the interests of the United States.

Japan Anxious for Renewal.
Japan is eager to renew the alliance and is maneuvering to ally the apprehensions of the British dominions. Tokyo has instructed Baron Shidehara, the Japanese ambassador here, to open negotiations with Secretary of State Hughes for an immediate settlement of all issues between the United States and Japan.

Japanese propaganda is directed toward convincing the British dominions that the relations between the United States and Japan furnish no sound impediment to a renewal of the alliance, because the controversy between the two countries are in process of settlement.

This, however, is not the fact. Baron Shidehara had several talks with Mr. Hughes and has disclosed Japan's desire to throw all the controversy into the hopper and settle them by the give and take compromise method. But he has struck a snag. Mr. Hughes not only is averse to this sort of bargaining, but he is reported to be far from favorably impressed with the proposals of settlement made by Japan on any single issue.

Hughes Goes to Headquarters.
The Japanese would like to satisfy the United States on the Yap island question merely by internationalizing the cable and radio stations and possibly giving America the Yap-Guam cable. Mr. Hughes refuses to take the bait. He insists that Japan cannot settle the Yap question. That can be done only by the allied powers reaching the disposition, without consulting the United States, of Yap and the other Pacific islands.

Not even the league of nations can settle this question, Mr. Hughes holds, and he will send no representative to discuss the matter with the league council, despite the urging of that body. Although the league council passes on the mandates, Mr. Hughes has carried his protest to headquarters—the powers in the supreme council which formulate the mandates.

France and Italy Cordial to U. S.
France and Italy have evinced a disposition to yield to the contentions of the United States in the mandate dispute. Great Britain wishes the United States and Japan to settle the dispute without disturbing the fundamental principle of the mandate, which in the case of the Pacific islands permits the extension thereto of the laws of the mandator.

By virtue of this arrangement, Japan can keep the United States out of the North Pacific islands, but Australia and New Zealand likewise can keep Japan out of the former German islands in the South Pacific.

Britain is wary of yielding anything to the United States in the North Pacific, which would impair the bars raised by the British dominions against Japan in the South Pacific. The question of Japanese immigration and the California alien land laws have not been discussed by Baron Shidehara and Mr. Hughes, though it is well known Japan would like to settle on a basis of a revamped gentleman's agreement, shutting off all Japanese immigration to America and a new treaty provision according to Japanese the same property holding privileges as other aliens.

The Wilson administration indicated a willingness to settle on this basis and the Harding administration has indicated its policy, but the campaign speeches of Mr. Harding indicated variance from the Wilson attitude. Mr. Harding took the stand that the Pacific coast states should be protected in reasonable measure from the influx of an immense race. The Pacific coast and Rocky mountain state delegations in congress have organized to fight any settlement with Japan which vitates the laws prohibiting land ownership by aliens ineligible to citizenship and furthermore they are in favor of the exclusion of Japanese by statute.

SENATE ACCEPTS MODIFIED PLAN TO CURB PACKERS

Takes House Bill; Called Yards Victory.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., June 16.—[Special.]—The senate today decided, by a vote of 37 to 34, to substitute the less drastic house draft for the packer regulation bill recommended by the senate agricultural committee.

This action was taken in the face of charges by Senator La Follette of Wisconsin that the house bill was drafted by attorneys for the packers. Senator Kenyon of Iowa also asserted that the house bill was favored by the opponents of legislation regulating the meat packing industry.

An attempt may be made tomorrow to reconsider the vote by which the agricultural committee bill was supplanted by the house measure, and confidence was expressed by Senator Kenyon that return of absentees would furnish enough votes to put the committee bill through.

The main point of difference between the two measures lies in the responsibility for enforcement of the act. The house bill vests the secretary of agriculture with authority to administer the measure, while the senate bill creates under the department of agriculture a federal live stock commissioner, appointed by the president and subject to confirmation by the senate, to regulate the packers.

Final Roll Call Put Off.
The final roll call on the measure was put off until tomorrow. Just when the senate was about to take a final vote Senator Sterling of South Dakota proposed an entirely new substitute and forced an adjournment.

Sefator La Follette declared that the house bill was "the packers' bill." "The house bill," he said, "represents the desires of the packers. They are opposed to the senate bill because they are afraid it will regulate them." "I have here in my hand," he continued, "a copy of the house bill as it was originally introduced. It contains also a number of suggestions written in handwriting between the lines. This copy was delivered into the hands of T. C. Atkeson, head of the National Grange, by Mr. Lightfoot, attorney for the beef trust. Seven of the most important of these suggestions were adopted and written into the house bill. This copy was furnished to me by Mr. Atkeson."

Two Amendments Adopted.
By a vote of 34 to 32 the senate adopted an amendment offered by Senator Norris of Nebraska providing that nothing in the bill should be construed as taking away any of the powers of the federal trade commission.

An amendment by Senator Wadsworth of New York to remove all live stock products and by-products not used for food from the application of the bill was adopted by a vote of 36 to 32.

During the closing debate Senator Kenyon made a fiery denunciation of the packers' lobby.

MAIDS TESTIFY AGAINST "FIFI" BEFORE REFEREE

Stillman Fights Appearance Before 'Camera.'

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 16.—[Special.]—Testimony adverse to Mrs. Fifi Stillman was given today at the hearing before Referee Daniel J. Gleason by servants formerly employed at "Mondanne," the Stillman country home at Pleasantville, N. Y.

Upon cross examination Mary Kelly, former parlor maid in Mrs. Stillman's employ, contradicted testimony she had given on direct examination and declared that a letter alleged to have been written to Mrs. Stillman by Fred K. Beauvais which was placed in evidence on identification by Bernard Kelly, was not the one she had handed to Kelly.

Miss Kelly, however, testified positively concerning the inscriptions on the insoles of the pair of moccasins, the gift of Beauvais to Guy Stillman, to which reference was made in one of the alleged Beauvais letters.

In Beauvais' Handwriting.
Miss Kelly testified she knew Beauvais' handwriting and was sure the inscriptions were his. The inscription in one moccasin, according to Miss Kelly, was: "I hope Guy will some day know his father."

This testimony was corroborated by Marguerite McDonough, former nurse of Alexander Stillman, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Stillman, who also testified that she saw Mrs. Stillman's personal maid, testified that she had seen Beauvais carry Mrs. Stillman her breakfast while they were at the Stillman country home, and had also seen him stand by Mrs. Stillman's bedside and play the Victrola and read to her while she was in bed.

The force of this testimony was somewhat weakened when she admitted on cross-examination that she had seen "Bud" Stillman, Mrs. Stillman's eldest son, and H. Phelps Clavson of Buffalo, a friend of Mrs. Stillman and her children, in Mrs. Stillman's bedroom on some of these occasions.

Stillman Fears Camera.
When the hearing recommenced this morning Cornelius J. Sullivan, attorney for James A. Stillman, the complainant, withdrew his agreement to produce Mrs. Stillman for cross examination on June 28. Mr. Sullivan was said to have declared that the publication of this agreement in the newspapers had injured Mr. Stillman greatly and that the latter would be subjected to the gaze of a curious crowd and would have to face a battery of newspaper photographers.

The issue was finally settled by J. L. Stillman's attorney agreeing to produce their client before the case for the plaintiff was ended with one week's notice to the attorneys for the defense.

Complaints of Press Accounts.
Col. William Rand counsel for Mr. Stillman complained of what he called the garbled account of the preceding day's hearing in the newspapers. Col. Rand was said to have declared there was a leak somewhere, that Mrs. Percy A. Rockefeller, widow of her brother, Mr. Stillman, did not weep, as reported, and that something ought to be done about it.

Mrs. Stillman's gypsylike costume of Wednesday, which was topped by a bright colored bandanna as a head dress, seems to have set a style in Poughkeepsie. A number of young girls wore bandannas today, and when a group of girls from Arlington, the home of John E. Mack, special guardian for Guy Stillman, came to present Mrs. Stillman a bouquet of flowers several of them wore bandannas.

BRITISH AGENTS IN U. S. TO CHECK GUN SMUGGLING

Proof Erin Gets Aid in America.

BY A. E. JOHNSON.

[United News Staff Correspondent.]
LONDON, June 16.—Great Britain's secret service and confidential agents in the Irish office are co-operating with Scotland Yard men both here and in America to check the gun running campaign. Sensational developments are expected if the efforts to smuggle arms to the Sinn Fein army from America continue.

The British intelligence service professes that it has long been aware that a certain make of machine gun was being purchased by American Sinn Feiners; two consignments of forty and fourteen respectively are believed to have reached Ireland.

Decide on Seizure Here.
After a consultation, officials here decided on seizure of the shipment in Hoboken, which was done yesterday. Instead of waiting until it arrived on the Irish coast, the object being to furnish irrefutable proof of the origin of the weapons.

The inventor of the gun, Gen. Thompson, formerly of the ordnance arm of the United States army, is now in London and has been here for a considerable time negotiating—almost successfully—to sell his patents to the British government. Army gunnery experts made exhaustive tests of the weapon and approved it. Recommendations are now before the British treasury for the purchase of the patents, but they probably will be cancelled owing to the suspicion that persons concerned with the manufacture of the guns have been dealing with Irish sympathizers in America.

SEEK OWNER OF GUNS.
New York, June 16.—Ownership of the 495 machine guns and the hundreds of spare parts, seized yesterday by custom officials after they were found secreted on the steamship East Side, and presumed to have been destined for Ireland, are still subject of investigation by government officials. The guns, through the agency of a federal warrant of detention, were restored today to the possession of the customs officials from whom they were taken on a search and seizure warrant by the Hoboken police.

A hearing set for today was intended to bring out the story of how they came to be on board the ship and to establish the claim of Francis Williams that they were stolen from his warehouse, but the hearing was declared off after the federal writ had been served.

BOOSTERS FIND DIRT FLYING ON WATERWAY LOCK

Fear Springfield Politics
May Delay Project.

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.

Waterway boosters en route to the waterways convention at Peoria journeyed down the valley today from Chicago to La Salle, and unlike most pilgrimages got an eyeful of actual work on the project that is to link up the drainage canal at Lockport with the navigable waters of the Illinois river. Just below Marseilles the party looked over the work in progress on the Marseilles lock which has been under way since November under contract let during the regime of Gov. Lowden. The lock is to be 600 feet long and 110 wide, with 14 feet of water over the miter sills and a lift of 21 feet. It is the one unit in the project actually under construction. But one lock no more makes the water way than one swallow makes a summer. Dams and other locks are to be built at Starved Rock, Brandon Road, and Dresden Island.

Tied Up in Politics Now.

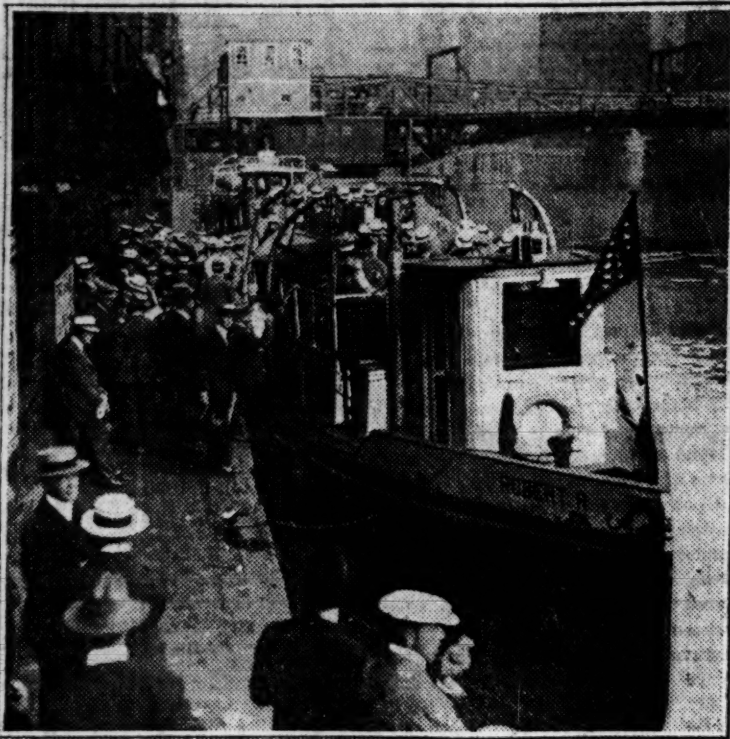

If contracts were all let experts say it would take three or four years to complete the project, but just now the enterprise seems tied up with political affairs at Springfield, and the length of time it takes to get the first real barges moving from Chicago down into the Illinois and the Mississippi probably depends upon how much politics is stirred into the improvement. Such is the way the experts on today's trip seem to view it. The pilgrims, however, are greatly encouraged over the visible start of work on the project for which the people back in 1908 adopted the constitutional amendment enabling the legislature to issue $20,000,000 of bonds.

The water way trip and conference is under the auspices of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, which, according to one speaker today, has some 25,000 members in seventy-five cities actively supporting waterway development projects to give the great manufacturing and agricultural central west real access to salt water by boats both through the St. Lawrence and the Mississippi rivers.

Cities Join in Boosting.

Cities along the line today joined in the boosting. The convention, in fact, is a perambulating conference. From State street bridge 175 Chicago business and professional men sailed down the drainage canal on the Chicago and the Robert R. McCormick to Lockport. At Joliet there was a luncheon and speechmaking. Col. Fred Bennett of the Joliet Association of Commerce spoke upon transportation needs, and Charles E. Woodward, chairman of the constitutional convention, dealt with the project historically. At La Salle Col. W. V. Judson, United States engineer, was the principal speaker at a dinner.

OFF TO BOOM WATERWAYS

Seeking to promote the development of Illinois waterways and intensify interest in a deep waterway from the great lakes to the gulf, a large party of Chicagoans left yesterday morning for a conference today at Peoria under auspices of the Illinois chamber of commerce. The Chicago party left the State street bridge on the Robert R., a sanitary district boat, and the Chicago, a government boat. The first stop was at Joliet, where the party took interurban cars to La Salle and Ottawa. After a meeting this noon at Henry the delegates will take Illinois river boats for Peoria. One of the immediate plans is to work out a waterway between Chicago and Peoria. The picture shows the Chicago contingent leaving.

SEEK TO QUASH INCOME TAX CASE OF RICH LAWYERS

Attorneys representing Charles Weinfeld and Daniel J. Schuyler Jr., who on Feb. 27, 1920, were indicted by the United States grand jury for alleged evasion of income tax, are preparing arguments to be presented in the federal court before Judge Landis on June 27 when the hearing is to be held on the demurrer, asking that the indictment be quashed.

The demurrer was scheduled for hearing last Tuesday. On that day counsel for the law firm, which is one of the best known in Chicago, asked for a continuance, which was granted by Judge Landis.

The demurrer alleges the indictment does not charge an offense, that it is faulty, and that because of the technicality the case against the defendants should be dismissed. District Attorney Clyne's office is opposing the plea.

Indictments Cause Sensation.

The indictments of Schuyler and Weinfeld created a sensation when they were returned in February, 1920.

The two attorneys have long been recognized as leading lawyers of the middle west. Both came from old Chicago families. Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Ettelson, prior to entering the city's service, was a member of the firm. The charges came as the first of a long promised crusade against income tax dodgers.

In the original accusations it was alleged that Mr. Schuyler paid only $115.30 in income tax for 1916, whereas he should have paid $3,400. Weinfeld was charged with paying $98.14 instead of $1,120 due for the same year.

It was said at the federal building that the incomes of Schuyler and Weinfeld, respectively, in 1916 were $120,000 and $66,000.

Firm Has Wealthy Clients.

Schuyler & Weinfeld are known to have represented among others, the Commonwealth Edison company, the Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company, the Union station project, the Chicago Telephone company, the Illinois Central railroad, and the Illinois Tunnel company.

This is the firm in which Corporation Counsel Samuel Ettelson was formerly a partner.

Revenue investigators, acting under orders from Washington, charged that during 1916 huge amounts of money passed through the hands of Schuyler & Weinfeld only to be paid out to the firm's clients.

"When this case comes to trial," predicted a man active in the original investigation, "it will bring out just how much money big interests in Chicago paid into political funds. The entire fabric of the 1916 campaign in Chicago is likely to be dragged into the open, as are the money powers behind political movements."

"Others" Never Revealed.

"The lawyers declare that most of the big payments shown on their books were given to them to pay others, but these 'others' have certainly not been mentioned and will not be unless the government digs them out or their names are demanded in court."

In addition to the "defraud" indictment the grand jury added the charge of perjury, because both returns had been sworn before a notary public.

CHICAGO TO HAVE MOST GLORIOUS FOURTH OF JULY

The Chicago Americanization council is busy preparing for a city-wide celebration of the Fourth of July.

The committee on community pageants and celebrations, of which Col. John V. Cline is chairman, met in the City club yesterday and made final arrangements.

More than 100 Chicago communities will give individual celebrations, and the Fourth will be more glorious than ever before, the committee predicts.

ALDERMEN SEEK REASON FOR SALE OF STREET BONDS

Scheme to Borrow for City Hall Uses Seen.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

City Controller Harding has advised for bids to be received June 21 for $7,939,000 worth of street improvement bonds.

"Are these bonds to be sold so that the proceeds may be placed in the city treasury and then borrowed by the corporation to pay the operating expenses of the city?" asked Ald. Wallace of the finance committee yesterday.

"That idea has been suggested by one of the afternoon papers. Are these bonds being sold for the purpose of making the street improvements—the purpose for which the voters approved of the bonds? I cannot for the life of me see what the purpose of this large sale is. Only one of the street improvement cases, Ogden avenue, has got to the stage of being tried in court. The city cannot buy or condemn land and buildings necessary to widen or extend streets until the court acts.

Quotes Faherty on Robey Street. "The city is proposing to sell more than $8,000,000 worth of Robey street bonds, although President Faherty of the board of local improvements has told this committee he wants to abandon that street improvement and use the money on other improvements.

"If the bonds are sold the city will have to pay between 4 and 5 per cent interest. If the plan is to put the money received from the bonds into the treasury so that it can be borrowed out again to operate the city, I think we should know about it. Why not call in the controller, treasurer, and Mr. Faherty and ask them what the program is?"

Controller and Aids Away.

"I move that the controller be sent for," said A. O. Anderson. Inquiry revealed that neither the controller nor any of his chiefs was available.

Accordingly, the committee decided to take up the subject again this afternoon, if some one is found to speak for the controller's office. The street improvement bonds advertised for sale are as follows:

Street.	Amount.
Robey street	$1,245,000
Ashland avenue	1,879,000
Ogden avenue	1,705,000
South Water street	1,110,000

Total $7,939,000
$31,000,000 Borrowed.

The city last year borrowed 75 per cent of its expected taxes for this year, and the law prohibits the issuance of any more tax anticipation warrants until after the annual appropriation bill is passed. That budget has not been passed, but the city and school board have already anticipated this year's income by borrowing $11,000,000.

That was accomplished in this way: Under an ordinance the city borrowed for current expenses from its own unused funds early in the year. The paper placed in the treasury as security for the money taken out was called "interim certificates."

Then the city wanted the time within which it must pass an appropriation ordinance extended from the first three to the first six months of the year. That bill was introduced into the house of the legislature Feb. 2 and passed the house Feb. 9. It passed the senate March 15 and became a law March 16 because it was classified as emergency legislation and received the required vote.

New Law Permits "Certificates." In that law was a little clause which permits Chicago to "issue certificates of indebtedness to an amount not exceeding one-half of the aggregate amount of the appropriations for general corporate purposes" for last year.

"SWEET PETUNIA"

Mrs. Mary Davis Small yesterday identified Fred Small, a prisoner in the detective bureau, as the husband who had deserted her and had since acquired two other wives. She said she was positive in her identification because of the way in which he pronounced "sweet petunia," a term of endearment he had used in his courtship. Mrs. Small is the central figure in the above picture. To the left is Earl Davis, a son by a former marriage, and to the right is Dora Eleanor Walker, her niece.

Fred Small, claimed as her husband by Mrs. Mary Davis Small, who accuses him of bigamy. He insists that she is mistaken in her identification, and he is backed up by the girl to whom he is engaged. (TRIBUNE Photos.)

So these certificates have been issued as follows:

For corporate purposes—
Jan. 12	$2,500,000
Feb. 4	1,500,000
Mar. 28	2,500,000
Apr. 4	2,500,000
June 10	2,500,000
Total	$11,000,000
For board of education—
Feb. 25	$6,000,000
June 10	5,000,000
Total	$9,000,000
For police pension fund—
Feb. 25	$500,000
Grand total	$21,000,000

This sum was borrowed from traction, bond, and other funds which were not required immediately for the purposes for which they were obtained. If the proceeds from the sale of the $7,939,000 of street bonds are not needed at once (as they probably will not be) that money too will be available to be loaned the corporate and other funds, needing cash for current expenses, in the opinion of Ald. Wallace.

COULDN'T FORGET THE WAY HE SAID "SWEET PETUNIA"

And So Wife No. 2 Lands C. A. Small in Cell.

Perhaps Mrs. Mary Davis Small doesn't know her own husband when she sees him.

Yesterday a man was taken to the detective bureau, charged with having a careless habit of acquiring wives without bothering over such inconsequential matters as a divorce. There he was identified by Mary, who claims to be spouse No. 2, as Charles A. Small, the man who used to call her his "sweet petunia." The petunia, gentle reader, is a vicious pubescent herb of the nightshade family, and is considerable flora.

"I never saw you before in my life," said the alleged hubby after his arrest. "O, yes, you did," returned Mrs. Small. "Don't you remember calling me sweet petunia?"

"I've never called you sweet petunia," he insisted. Mrs. Small's eyes sparkled. She turned to Detective Sergeant Cartan and McFarland.

"There!" quoth she triumphantly. "I can tell by the way he says it that this is my husband. There's no other man in the world can say sweet petunia like that."

Before the floral identification took place Mrs. Small had experienced a little difficulty in recognizing her mate. Neither Earl Davis, her young son by a former marriage, nor Dora Walker, her niece, could be certain he was the right man. You see, hubby disappeared two weeks after the nuptials and not even Mrs. Small had had much time to get acquainted with him.

The wedding occurred at Crown Point last October, shortly after he smiled at her as she was hanging out the wash at 4448 Indiana avenue. Then she retrieved an $800 diamond ring of his from a pawn shop. He took another stone, belonging to her, and said he would have it $450 worth of sparkle reset. Then he disappeared.

"I saw him several times after that in the company of a girl named Lillian Jorgenson," said Mrs. Small. "Then I got busy and discovered he had two other wives."

Spouse No. 1, she says, was Miss

Angie Belles until she became Mrs. Charles Small in Weir, Kas., in October, 1919. Lillian was No. 3, being annexed to the Small collection of wives on Dec. 2, 1920—less than two months after the desertion of No. 2.

"She's got the wrong person," said Small, who claims his first name is Herbert. "Why, I was in the army when this woman says I got married in Kansas. I never had a wife in my life."

His statement was corroborated by a demure little lady who visited him at the bureau last night. She is Miss Cecilia Lucas, a waitress in a restaurant at Canal and Van Buren streets.

"Why, I've been keeping company with Herbert for a year," she said. "Dec. 24, the day he is supposed to have been married last, he left for Kentucky to spend Christmas with his folks. It's foolish to say he has all those wives. Besides, we're engaged to be married ourselves."

U. S. SENATOR IN LONDON SEES RED RUSSIA'S ENVOY

Krassin Tells France He Can't Understand Us.

BY JOSEPH IRWIN FRANCE.
[United States Senator from Maryland.]
[Copyright, 1921: By the Baltimore Sun.]
LONDON, June 2.—[Special correspondence.]—Early the day after reaching London I sought out the Russian trade delegation in New Bond street, curious to see what manner of offices the soviet might have in this street, ablaze with the huge gem collections of London's jewel market.

I found a plain, comfortable building, decidedly businesslike. We were courteously received by an alert young Slav, who informed us that Mr. Krassin, head of the delegation, had but just arrived from his recent conference in Moscow. By rare good fortune, then, I had been pulling in at one station while he was arriving at another, so there was no delay in establishing contact with this man, who is performing not alone industrial feats, but a statesman's task of enormous importance to Russia.

Little Red Tape.
There was little formality about seeing him. I was given an appointment for the following morning and promptly at the hour I was being led to the neat, modernly equipped quarters of N. K. Kishko, secretary of the commission, a smooth shaven, ruddy young Russian, self-confident and well informed.

He sat at a busy desk, from time to time communicating with others in the building by an American-made inter-office device on the desk between him and his secretary. I was impressed that while in America many are trembling with an un-American fear of Russian propaganda and others are stating that trade with Russia is impossible because Russia "has nothing with which to buy," England, without fear or delusion, is in touch through these busy offices with all the trade possibilities in Russia's huge domain.

Kishko turned his searching blue eyes toward me as I stated my wish to proceed to Russia and outlined the purpose of my mission. He listened intently and at length said abruptly,

"Mr. Krassin will see you," and we were ushered into the office of the Russian trade commissioner.

Krassin's Portrait.
Mr. Krassin greeted us in excellent English, although I had not spoken our language, and with marked cordiality.

He is a man about 50, with black hair graying at the temples, dark intelligent eyes, and a closely cut black beard. He speaks slowly and distinctly. His manner is fine; his courtesy grave and dignified.

I told him of the reasons which had induced me to undertake the mission to Russia and assuring him that I did not represent officially my government, but wished to see conditions in Russia as they actually are, with a view to informing the people of my country.

America's Stand Puzzles Krassin.
Krassin impressed me as a strong executive, a capable, practical business man, a statesman devoted to his country, and an idealist hopeful of being of service to his race. He seemed puzzled at America's attitude toward Russia and unable to understand our purpose on policy.

It was only when he spoke of America that he exhibited emotion. He had just remarked that America had not shown any very strong desire to welcome a Russian spokesman.

"Why, when I was a boy in school I began admiring America," he said. "We all did. Even the peasants thought lovingly of the great people across the sea, the idealists who had attained the liberty of which we in Russia had only dreamed. We have so much in common, not the least being our lack of designs on our neighbors; both of us are essentially peace loving."

Mr. Krassin was most guarded in his conversation, but certainly nothing was said to lessen my belief that American aid would be welcomed by all groups in Russia.

Explains Russia's Position.
The point which he did make clear was that the collapse of Russia was not the result of the revolution, but it was the economic demoralization which had brought the political upheaval. The revolution was the result, not the cause.

He pointed out that the reconstruction of Russia has been delayed by the blockade and by the wars which have been forced upon her while other lands have been at peace.

Five millions of Russians were called to the colors while other nations were demobilizing and the already disorganized industries of Russia were still further strained to provide for these armies.

When Russia needed machines, raw materials, and manufactured articles these were denied.

Mr. Krassin informed me that he could not speak for his government about my proposed visit, but assured me that he would at once cable to Moscow and would later inform us of the government's attitude, for the restrictions of wartime are still in effect.

MISS MURPHY'S DEATH AN ACCIDENT.
Miss Anna B. Murphy, a stenographer who lived at the Delaware hotel, accidentally fell from the thirteenth floor of the Stock Exchange building, according to the coroner's jury verdict yesterday. The jury found the claim she had become dizzy as a result of taking a prescription that had not been filled properly.

EAST INDIANS OPPOSE BRITISH TREATY WITH JAPS

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LONDON, June 15.—A new complication has arisen in connection with the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, according to an official of the India office. The East Indians are opposing a renewal because it is believed one of the objects of the alliance is to use Japanese troops to preserve order in India.

Even loyalist Indians are opposed to this because they are jealous of their new statehood in the empire. They also object to allowing Japan to police the Indian ocean.

Madam, yesterday we suggested to your husband that he telephone Dearborn 1800, immediately upon reaching his office, and have a cake, baked that day, neatly boxed, awaiting his call.

If not, he probably feels remorseful today, and you may expect to see a package under his arm as he turns in at the gate tonight.

FRENCH CRUSH TURK CAVALRY IN ASIA BATTLE

BY HENRY WALES.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright, 1921, By The Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, June 16.—Greek quarters learn from Athens that hostilities have recommenced in Syria between the Turks and the French.

Gen. Gouraud, en route to Alexandria and Aleppo, is reported to have attacked the Kemalists. Bloody fighting resulted in the French dispersing the Turks with field gun and machine gun fire.

The Kemalists cavalry is making surprise attacks in various sectors in an effort to learn where the Greeks are concentrating for the offensive. 300,000 Greeks—100,000 Turks.

SMYRNA, June 15.—[By the Associated Press.]—King Constantine, who has just arrived here to take a direct part in the impending clash between the Greeks and the Turks, talked to the Associated Press today concerning some of the main phases of the struggle about to begin.

The king said he did not wish to boast or to forecast events, yet he felt convinced, he declared, that the Greek army, with its morale and spirit in a high state, now was able to crush the Turkish Nationalist forces under Mustafa Kemal Pasha and was eager for the opportunity to take the field.

The army, King Constantine indicated, now comprised 200,000 fighting men in Anatolia, with 100,000 in reserve, while against this force of 300,000 the Turks were estimated to have less than 100,000 men available.

Plans for Offensive.
King Constantine declared the offensive was unlikely to start for several weeks, and he said he did not expect to go to the front before July 3. The Greek army, the king declared,

TWO WIVES TOO MANY

Raymond Lee Hoover, jailed as a bigamist who married three times without the formality of a divorce; wife No. 2, Pearl Holbert Hoover, who caused his arrest, and their baby.

RAYMOND LEE HOOVER, alleged bigamist, has been sent to jail by Judge S. H. Trude in default of $2,000 bonds. Hoover, it is charged, has been married three times. The last two times he neglected to get divorces.

He has a 10 year old daughter living from his first marriage to a Nashville, Ill., girl. In 1919 he married another Nashville girl, Miss Pearl Holbert, who made the complaint that jailed him. She has a two month old son and lives at 857 North La Salle street.

Last week Hoover married Miss Hatlie Algrim at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Algrim, 3419 Pierce street.

was not receiving any assistance from the British government. All that the British had done, he said, was to approve certain requisitions for a limited quantity of munitions from private firms.

While the king was talking, a boatload of Greeks from Mytilene landed at the pier nearby and paid homage to the king. "Long live our father and king" was the cry that went up. Constantine acknowledged the salutations by arising and bowing. Then, turning to the correspondent, he said: "It doesn't look as though I'd abdicate, does it?"

1,000 EXPECTED TO TRAIN FOR ARMY AT GRANT

When "assembly sounds the opening formation of the citizen's training camp at Camp Grant, Rockford, on July 21, nearly every bunch of the service will be represented. There will be doughboys, artillerymen, cavalrymen, aviators, quartermasters, and even chaplains. It is estimated that close to 1,000 men will answer the first roll call.

Regular army officers will serve as instructors. The customary wartime equipment will be issued to the men, including everything from woolen socks to bayonets. There will be no play during the session.

School for Chaplains.
A course for citizens who wish to become army chaplains or reserve chaplains will be included. The announcement of the chaplains' school was made yesterday after several divinity students and ministers had asked permission to attend the camp.

The reserve officers' training camp opens at Fort Sheridan today. More than 800 student officers and men on the officers' reserve list are expected to answer "yo-hoo" to the first roll call.

From 6th Corps Area.
The men are drawn from the 6th corps area and the majority of them are from universities. The University of Illinois leads with an enrollment of seventy students. Twenty-six men have signed from Northwestern university.

Thirty officers will handle the instruction during the camp, which is to extend over a period of six weeks. Col. W. D. Chittly, head of the R. O. T. C. in the 6th corps area, will be commandant.

CHICAGOAN HEADS AD MEN.
Atlanta, Ga., June 16.—Charles Henry MacIntosh of Chicago today was elected president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World. He was opposed for the place by George W. Hopkins of New York. The vote was 726 to 626.

THE NORTHERN TRUST COMPANY

Which Will You Choose to manage the money you leave by Will?

The Northern Trust Company

Never dies

It is a permanent organization. The passing out of single lives among the personnel does not affect the continuity or quality of service.

Is never absent or disabled

It is accessible every business day in the year. When any officer is absent, there are always others to take over his responsibilities.

Is abundantly responsible

Large capital resources—now exceeding $5,000,000—are a substantial safeguard for an estate entrusted to this company.

Is free from prejudice

A trust company renders a truly personal service, but it does so as a business institution uninfluenced by personal bias, unswayed by undue pressure from the heirs.

Has the experience

Acting as executor or trustee is a technical job requiring special skill and wide experience in the care of property, investment of money, management of industry. This company makes a business of it.

Has the facilities

No one man can handle all the problems of property as effectively as an organization of men trained to do each function expertly.

Reports are regular and exact

Trust company accounting is exact. Carefully drawn and complete reports are furnished periodically to all parties in interest.

Makes a business of trusteeship

This company never makes a side issue of estates in its charge. They are managed by officers and employees whose duty it is to watch over them.

Collective experience and judgment

Estates handled by this company have the benefit of the collective experience and judgment of its entire Board of Directors.

The Average Individual

His life is uncertain

His death would rob the estate of services the maker of the will had himself selected. Another would have to be appointed who might be unfamiliar with the property, or undesirable as a trustee.

May travel or become ill

No man can be depended upon to remain in one place indefinitely, or to keep his health. He might be away or disabled at a critical time.

Is often financially irresponsible

Might not possess the personal resources to make up losses for which the trustee is responsible.

Is often prejudiced

A relative or friend is sometimes influenced by the heirs to depart from the expressed intent of the testator. He also may show preferences and so create discord.

Is usually unfamiliar with trusteeship

The average individual trustee serves only once in this capacity. He has to learn: how to proceed in accord with the law; how to liquidate or manage properties; how to reinvest the proceeds; how to keep proper records.

Must do everything himself

Without an organization the individual is compelled to do everything himself or employ specialists at a high cost to the estate.

Avoids making reports

Individuals avoid making lengthy and detailed reports. It is a common complaint of heirs, that they do not know what the trustee is doing or what income they can depend upon.

May be absorbed in his own affairs

The ablest individual is usually the busiest with his own affairs, which may require his attention at a time when it is needed to serve an estate.

One man's judgment

With an individual Fiduciary, the estate has the benefit of the experience and judgment of only one man.

For over thirty years The Northern Trust Company has specialized in the administering of wills and estates. With all its advantages, the cost to your heirs for our expert service is no more and is usually less than would be paid an individual executor-trustee for less competent service. The reasonableness of our charges is proven by the fact that we have handled hundreds of estates of $50,000 and upwards with entire satisfaction to the beneficiaries.

one must one not? Ah, yes, one must."

"The detectives who told this story say Peggy left her jewels in Europe as part of her plan to marry the prince and settle down abroad. If she took them to the States there would be heavy duties to pay, and what was the use of that?"

Attorneys for Peggy say the smuggling charges brought against their client were made by Joyce merely as a ploy to locate the jewels.

Alfred Austrian, attorney for Joyce, had much to say about those jewels yesterday in the hearing on Peggy's demand for $10,000 a month separate maintenance and $100,000 for solicitor's fees and expenses.

"One of the strings of pearls Joyce gave her," Austrian said, "is worth $25,000, a fortune so vast the mind of the average man cannot comprehend it. Peggy treated it as nothing at all. The fortune of over $1,000,000 her husband lavished on her in a few months was but a stepping stone to a future of greater splendor, it appears."

Mr. Austrian will conclude his argument today with a demand that Peggy be brought to Chicago. Judge Sabath indicated he would not take long to decide that point.

Austrian laid stress yesterday on his contention that Peggy's present suit was not brought in good faith.

WOMAN NAMED WITH WILHELM DENIED DAMAGE

NANCY, France, June 16.—(United News.)—Mlle. Blanche Deserray, who was characterized as the mistress of the former German crown-prince by Louis Dumur, author, in his book "The Butcher of Yvelin," has obtained only nominal damages in her suit against the newspapers and magazines which printed the novel serially.

In his book Dumur told of the love affairs of the crown prince while the great battle of Verdun was in progress and while the prince had his headquarters at Stenay. He declared that Frederick Wilhelm kept his headquarters there so that he might have Mlle. Deserray with him.

Suit was entered by the young woman after the armistice, and the verdict, after an extended hearing was handed down Thursday. Petit Parisienne was fined 1 franc for its publication of the story.

V O G U E

If anyone said to you, "It's made of orange satin, trimmed with bands of turquoise blue, and there are blue tassels on the sash," wouldn't you guess almost anything but "bathing-suit"? You would unless you'd seen the July 1st Vogue, full of the tangerine and raspberry and red polka-dotted costumes designed by Helen Dryden to make the beaches gayer than ever.

And for the time that you spend on dry land, Vogue suggests variations of the old and tried—always successfully—Victorian styles. Billowing organdies and blue sashes! And leghorn hats with broad brims!

For instance, there's that lovely lady standing under a rose-arbor, in a white organdie over a scalloped satin slip, crisscrossed with ribbons of black organdie edged with cream Valenciennes lace. Don't you need an organdie like that for your next garden party? And have you ever—shades of Victoria!—worn red and white checked overalls when you worked in your garden? Judging by Marty's drawing, they're very becoming!

Then there are felt hats—the latest, smartest thing for midsummer wear—in light becoming colours. And summer wraps. And dinner gowns of lovely filmy softness.

Colour, gaiety, variety—those are the secrets of successful summer clothes. They look expensive, but they aren't—not if you consult Vogue first.

SHOTS AT NIGHT TERRIFY DUBLIN; TRAIN ATTACKED

DUBLIN, June 16.—[By the Associated Press.]—The residents of central Dublin were terrified last night by fusillades of shots beginning soon after the curfew hour and continuing at intervals of half an hour. The intensity of the revolver, rifle, and machine gun firing recalled that of the Easter rebellion of 1916.

Connell, Westmoreland, and D'Olier streets were swept by bullets. Searchlights played from Dublin castle on the area. No information could be obtained at headquarters, but a semi-official statement said that civilians fired at sentries over the ruins of the burned custom house, and the fire was returned.

At headquarters it was stated that bombs were thrown and revolver shots fired at a troop train near the Drumcondra station in Dublin this morning. Three soldiers being wounded, one seriously.

PICK GUARD FOR KING

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BELFAST, June 16.—[Northeast Ireland will take a holiday Wednesday when King George opens the Ulster parliament. Guns from the forts will herald the arrival of the royal yacht at Donegal quay. The king, immediately on his arrival, will receive addresses of welcome from the harbor board and other personages, after which he will drive in state to the city hall in a coach brought from London.

King George will address the members of both houses from a throne specially constructed and modeled after the throne in the house of lords in London. The premier of Ulster will then entertain the party at a luncheon. Later at Ulster hall King George will receive addresses from various public bodies. Finally he will drive by a circuitous route to the royal yacht. The king will remain in the city only a few hours.

Troops are pouring into Balmoral show grounds and the public parks are being commandeered for their accommodation. Elaborate precautions for the king's safety are being prepared. A special guard of 100 men, each at least six feet tall, is being picked from the Royal Irish constabulary.

Irish Kill 568 in Year.

LONDON, June 16.—[By the Associated Press.]—Murders by "rebels" in Ireland since July, 1920, have totaled 568, Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland, stated in the house of commons today. The number of crown forces convicted for murder in the same period, he added, was: The military, none; the Royal Irish constabulary, 1; and the police auxiliaries, 1, the last named man being found to be insane.

WOULD AMEND IRISH ACT

[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]
LONDON, June 16.—In the house of lords tonight the Earl of Donoughmore presented a motion urging the government to determine immediately what amendments they were prepared to propose to the Irish act of 1920 and to authorize that negotiations be opened to terminate the deadlock.

WOMEN CHARGE ESCORTS WERE "IN ON HOLDUP"

Martin Jordan, 255 West Erie street, and John Ryan, 5305 Berenice avenue, city firemen, appeared before Judge Bernard F. Barasa yesterday on charges of robbery made by Mrs. Esther Hamill, 2314 North Clark street, and Miss Dora Haeger, 2000 Burlington street, who were held up in Humboldt park two weeks ago while in an automobile with the firemen. The police were to be a discharged city police officer are looking for two men, one named, who committed the holdup. According to the story told by the women the robbers did not search the firemen, but did search them. Because of that they believe the firemen "in on the deal." The hearing was set for June 20.

JOIN LEAGUE OR FACE SOVIETISM, HARDING IS TOLD

New York, June 16.—Hamilton Holt, magazine editor, who headed the delegation of pro-league Republicans that called on former President Wilson during the last presidential campaign, today made public a letter he had written President Harding asking him to explain to the American people the terms of the Harding association proposed to supplant the Wilson league of nations.

Mr. Holt, a member of the League to Enforce Peace, took a hand in the last presidential campaign by making public a list of 100 Republicans who had bolted the Harding ranks. The text of his letter follows:

League Up for Six Years.
"It is now six years that the league of nations issue has been before the country. It is now two years that you as senator, presidential candidate, President elect, and President, have had the league of nations issue officially before you.
"As President elect, you did not see fit to disclose your attitude on the league beyond what you had said during the campaign. Both the 'thirty-one' and the 'irreconcilables' claimed you for their own.

"As President, however, you have unequivocally repudiated the existing league of nations, whose area comprises considerably more than half the earth, and whose population numbers three-quarters of the human race.

Two Things Necessary.
"Surely you cannot expect the forty-eight members of the present league to scrap it and come into your association unless two things are perfectly clear:

"First, that the new association is substantially as good or better than the existing league, and.

"Second, that this time a proposal of a President of the United States will have the permanent and overwhelming support of the American people.

"There is an important reason why you should disclose the details of your plan at once. The world is on the brink of revolution, famine, and pestilence. The only two great ideas that have come out of this war as world panaceas are the league of nations and bolshevism. If you repudiate the existing league and delay too long suggesting anything in its place you run the very real risk of making the world believe you have no plan at all, and if that comes to be generally believed can you guarantee that the world would not turn to bolshevism?"

COUNCIL ORDERS DRASTIC RULES FOR TAXI DRIVERS

Indications are Chicago will have the most drastic taxicab regulation ordinance in the United States as the result of the recent battles between employees of the Checker and Yellow Cab companies. Yesterday the council local transportation committee heard representatives of both companies hurl charges and countercharges for two hours, then directed a subcommittee to get to work at once on an ordinance containing the following provisions:

That the owner of every public cab be required to file a $10,000 bond with the police department before receiving a license, and that licenses revoked for a second violation of law may not be restored.

That the licenses of chauffeurs found with "revolvers, blackjacks, or other weapons" on their persons be revoked and that they be restored under no circumstances.

That heavy fines be provided for companies which permit their chauffeurs to drive cars without licenses.

That the licenses of chauffeurs convicted of "assault or any other disorderly act" while driving a cab be revoked.

"In view of the fact that we already carry $11,500,000 insurance, we naturally are highly in favor of a city ordinance demanding a $10,000 bond for taxicabs," said Benjamin Samuels, attorney for the Yellow Cab company.

POLISH INSURGENT HEADQUARTERS, Upper Silesia, June 16.—

Far from restoring its prestige the inter-allied commission, through the Blotnitz disarmament promises, has lessened its authority in Upper Silesia.

With the evacuation of the first zone by the rebels and Germans set for last Tuesday, the commission at the last moment ordered Korfanty's troops to remain in their advance positions. Since then both camps have been marking time.

While the reason given to the Poles for the sudden change in the evacuation plans was couched in vague terms it was unnecessary, as the German leaders, so far, have refused to accept the commission's program, one of the features of which was for the Poles to police the Korfanty territory with their own militia.

For Safety, Buy High-Grade Bonds

Savings banks, restricted by state laws from making hazardous use of their depositors' money, and insurance companies, whose paramount interest is safety of principal, annually invest millions of dollars in high-grade bonds. Aside from the safety features of such securities, an unusual degree of marketability is offered.

The greatest volume of bonds, however, is bought by individual investors, each one eager to build up an adequate, substantial income fund for the future.

Your income fund will grow much more rapidly, and rest on a far more stable basis, if you build it on a sound investment policy. It is part of our service to formulate such plans—we can help you. Phone, call or write.

DISARMAMENT SOLONS ARGUE SHIPPING BOARD RATIFIES WAGE SLASH OF 15%

Washington, D. C., June 16.—(Special.)—The representatives of the house walked abruptly out of the conference on the naval appropriations today, informing the conferees for the senate that they were through with negotiations, at least until a better basis for understanding could be reached.

This action of the house conferees, headed by Representative Kelley, Michigan, Republican, threw the whole naval bill situation completely at sea. House conferees declare unless the senators display a more conciliatory attitude there will be an impasse.

Although the bill has been in conference for more than a week, no progress has been made. Senate conferees insist that the $95,000,000 appropriations their body added to the original sum of $95,000,000 deemed by the house sufficient for the navy during the coming year must remain in the bill. House conferees are equally adamant that the $95,000,000 must be eliminated.

SHIPPING BOARD RATIFIES WAGE SLASH OF 15%

Washington, D. C., June 16.—A new working agreement, embodying a 15 per cent reduction in wages, was ratified by the shipping board and representatives of the marine engineers to-day and deposited with the secretary of labor. The new wage scale became effective June 14, it was announced, and will continue in effect until Dec. 31 next. A similar agreement was reached with radio operators. It was added, and others will be negotiated with representatives of the seamen, firemen, and cooks.

Private Owners Rebel.

New York, June 16.—The American Steamship Owners' association declined to join with the shipping board in ratifying a new working agreement.

The Spoilers

YOU remember the first book Rex Beach wrote, called "The Spoilers"? In that book actual facts formed the foundation of the story. Certain corrupt politicians, with the aid of corrupt and misguided public officials, looted the claims of the miners under the guise of the law. Eventually they were exposed and driven out of the Yukon.

"Checkers—always one move ahead"

He Had a "Social" Disease

He didn't realize fully the effect on his efficiency and earning capacity until he began taking medical treatment at the Public Health Institute. After being treated for a short period he felt like a new man. So improved was his efficiency that it brought him an increase in salary.

This man's "social" disease was affecting his whole physical and mental condition, as is usually the case. He wasn't as good a man in business as he could be and should be. He wasn't earning the money that he might. In other words, his affliction was costing him money in dollars and cents. How true this was he realized soon after beginning treatment at the Public Health Institute. In a short time he was so much his real self again in efficiency and earning capacity that he was able to earn what he might have been earning for a long time. The increase in salary he received awakened him to the fact that it was cheaper for him to get well than to remain sick.

Treatment for All At Small Cost

Every day the Public Health Institute is helping hundreds who are afflicted with venereal diseases. Some of these are young people who have but lately contracted disease; others are men and women of advanced ages (up to 60 years) whose trouble has been of years' standing.

Besides treating patients medically, the Institute also does valuable educational work on the prevention of venereal disease, which is of vital benefit to the community at large. Every physician, every clergyman, every welfare worker, every citizen who wants to be a good citizen should encourage the worthy mission of the Public Health Institute.

The public spirited men who founded the Institute did so not for gain, but to make a fight on venereal disease in the interest of public health and good. Their purpose was to place within the reach of everyone, no matter how poor, the very best of medical care, treatment and advice.

The cost of treatment is small—a fact made possible by the large number of patients handled. Any individual can readily pay without depriving himself of any necessities.

Privacy and Convenience

The Institute can handle 30 patients at a time, each in a private treatment room. This means no waiting in a crowded reception room, no delay in being treated. Privacy from the time you enter until you leave.

The Institute occupies the entire 4th floor of the Reliance Building at 32 N. State St., southwest corner Washington. Centrally located in the heart of the loop, within easy transportation distance for everyone. Patients who work in the loop or close to it, can run up at noon for treatment. Those who work at a distance from the loop can come in the evening after work or on Saturday afternoons.

If you are afflicted with a venereal disease, lose no time in getting the proper treatment. Not only for your own sake, but for those with whom you live. A visit to the Public Health Institute will do much to put your mind at rest.

To Employers:

You can help in the good work of the Public Health Institute and add to the efficiency of your own work by letting your employees know the facts about venereal disease and the service of this Institute. We supply employers with placards for posting in proper places, also literature for distribution among employees. Write for particulars.

JIMMY AND HIS TIRED MOTHER ARE HAPPY TODAY

"Mamma, am I ever going to see a tree and grass?"

Jimmie, 3 year old resident in Peoria street, near Milwaukee avenue, recently was confined to bed with a serious sickness, left the Northwestern station at noon with several of others for Algonquin and the Tribune Free hospital and camp for convalescent mothers and their children.

They will stay there two weeks, in the pure air of the country, with plenty of sleep in good beds and plenty of wholesome, strength producing food. And so it will be with thousands of other mothers and their youngsters this summer.

All Can Help.

If you are anxious to help swell the number who will go to Algonquin this summer send in your contribution at once. Also remember hundreds of Chi-ago families cannot afford ice to keep the milk for their babies fresh and cool. The Tribune Free Ice Fund is going to see that these people have ice, and you are invited to help.

New contributions to THE TRIBUNE free ice fund are:

Dixon G. Williams	$10	M. H. H. H.	1

LANDIS, BUSY IN COURT, DELAYS WAGE VERDICT

Contractors and others who haunted the corridor leading to Judge Landis' chambers in the Federal building yesterday, departed late in the afternoon, disappointed. The decision affecting the building trades wage dispute was not announced. Judicial duties had kept the arbitrator busy during most of the day.

"Tomorrow" Judge Landis repeated in answer to a question as he made his way from bench to chambers. "Perhaps—maybe."

Reports from cities near Chicago indicate contractors and building trades employees in some of these have agreed to apply the Landis verdict in settling their wage differences. Thousands of craftsmen in the Calumet district, who had been idle since May 1, have gone back to jobs representing $5,000,000 worth of building.

Normal Park Folk Protest Coal Yard Upon Campus

A mass meeting was held last night at Normal Park under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers' association to protest against the erection of a coal yard on the campus of the Chicago Normal school for the distribution of coal to south side schools. Ald. Benjamin Wilson promised to lend his support to the resolution that was adopted and to an attempt to beautify the campus.

Smart Modes in Tub Frocks, $20 Are of Normandy Voile and Imported Dimity

Among the better tub frock fashions these fabrics are much favored. And delightful reason for their vogue is in the charming frocks featured. For they have the air of frocks fashioned under personal supervision.

Double folds of Normandy voile give a bit of flare, and simulate pockets. There's a collar and vestee of embroidered organdy. In rose, Copenhagen blue and navy blue. Sketched above at the right.

The colors are vivid tones, pastel tints, and the much-wanted hats of all black or all white.

Some Are Embroidered or Beaded

Voile Frocks with Wool Stitching, $12.50

A bit more grown-up is this frock sketched at the right. Of voile in a fine, soft quality. In navy blue with gray, brown and yellow. Sizes 12 to 16. At right.

Girls' Knitted Sports Capes, Special, $6.75

They are in the brighter colors with white, or in darker shades with contrasting shades. Values much out of the ordinary at this pricing.

COUNCIL BOARD ATTACKS LEAGUE OF RETAIL MEN

The council finance committee yesterday stamped its disapproval upon the Allied Retail Merchants' association, the organization for which Russell J. Poole, chief of the city food price bureau, Robert Lees, and several others obtained a charter. Its purpose as announced in its bylaws is to prevent exorbitant prices and profiteering.

"Such an organization would inevitably result in boosting prices," commented Ald. Schwartz.

"How can you reduce prices except by combination?" suggested Chairman Richter.

See Retailers' Combination. "That organization looks to me as if it is against the people and the laws," remarked Ald. Moran.

"If it is to be successful you will have every retailer as a member—it will be a combination of them," said Ald. Clark.

"By fictitious and lying advertisements such as are displayed for certain California fruits, prices are boosted," Poole claimed. "These retailers would not handle those fruits at such profiteering prices."

"You are going to include everything," Moran said. "You have a shoeman, a grocer, a laundryman, and a tinsmith on your directorate."

Many Favor Food Bureau. Ald. Adamowski started the attack, claiming the association was organized in Poole's office in the city hall. Poole said the trouble was started by a friend of Adamowski who wanted a salary as an officer of the organization when no salaries were paid any one. This man, Poole said, is forming another organization.

But the aldermen who spoke are against the organization although many of them favor the city food price bureau. "Poole claimed he had saved 'millions' for the public on sugar, $53,000 a day for patrons of loop restaurants, $30,000 a day on the price of bread, $20,000 a day on the price of milk."

The subject came before the committee because of a request for a $25,000 appropriation. For the last six months, at least year $10,000 was set aside and about $5,000 spent. Poole told the aldermen the organization had fallen down and intimated he would abandon it.

WOMAN LAWYER FIGHTS 3 YEARS TO SAVE CLIENT

A three year fight to free a Negro who she believed had been sentenced to the penitentiary.

Miss Hart, through her inexperience when she defended him at a murder trial was won yesterday in Criminal court by Attorney Pearl M. Hart.

The Negro is Milton D. Sorrells. In 1918 he was accused of murdering his wife while she was asleep in bed. The late Judge Guerin appointed Miss Hart as counsel. Sorrells was unable to prove an alibi and the jury found him guilty. The verdict was life.

Miss Hart told friends she believed her inexperience in murder trials had lost the case. She said she was certain Sorrells was innocent.

She appealed the case to the Supreme court, which reversed the decision of the lower court. The case was sent back for retrial.

An alibi showing Sorrells was not at home when the murder was committed was presented when the case was called yesterday. When Miss Hart finished her defense Assistant State's Attorney James W. Burke turned to the judge.

"The state has no defense," he admitted. "I move that the charge be nolle prossed and the defendant dismissed."

Mrs. Palen Claims Husband Got Divorce by Fraud

Charging fraud and deceit in obtaining the divorce, Mrs. Henrietta Palen, 3215 Rice street, will ask Judge Kichham Scanlan in Circuit court next Monday to set aside the decree granted her husband, Philip Palen, last November. He charged desertion.

The Chicago Bar association and the state's attorney's office have been called into the case, according to Attorney Herman S. Waldman of Gesas, Epstein & Leonard, representing Mrs. Palen.

Palen was a well to do insurance man with offices in the New York Life Insurance building before he left the city and bought a farm in Indiana.

Takes Hosiery to "Help Her Widowed Daughter"

Mrs. Rose McLaughlin, 65 years old, 4631 Malden avenue, and her daughter, Mrs. May Cooper, 3202 Kenmore avenue, were arrested last night charged with shoplifting.

Mrs. McLaughlin, detected with stolen hosiery in a north side department store, said she wanted to help her widowed daughter—not Mrs. Cooper. She declared Mrs. Cooper, who works in a loop store, had given her some of the store's goods. About $400 worth of dresses was found in the house. Mrs. Cooper denies the charge.

When people saw through discount tires this was bound to happen—

CAR-OWNERS make one criticism of the tire business well worth thinking about.

From their point of view the phrase "standard quality" in connection with tires is too carelessly used.

If there are so many "standard" tires why all these discounts—20%—30%—40% off? Off what? What basis of value to begin with?

Why so much talk about discounts and so much silence about service?

To-day, "discounts" have proven just one thing to the public:

—That somewhere there is the standard tire—the greatest and most constant worth—the tire that all other tires can be measured by.

Par quality—at a net price.

Any car-owner who intends to do standard tire-buying will find his best guide in the simple out-spoken remarks he hears everywhere.

"Still running on a last season's set of U. S. Royal Cords."

"Going to get Royal Cords this year."

"Everybody out our way drives U. S. Royal Cords."

As people say everywhere
United States Tires are Good Tires

"Yes, I know—but the dealer said these were as good as Royal Cords."

The dominant public opinion for U. S. Royal Cords is all the more significant because every one in the tire business started with an equal chance.

It was open to any tire maker to set the standard.

Today most motorists know what to expect from a tire.

And when more tires render a service measurable in terms of U. S. Royal Cords there will be more net tire prices—and less and less room in the tire business for "discounts."

AMERICAN LABOR VOTES TO REJECT "ONE BIG UNION"

Denver, Colo., June 16.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor today finally and completely repudiated the International Federation of Labor Trade unions and the "one big union" idea.

Without discussion, the convention, in session here, sustained the action of its council on the "one big union" idea. The international federation's offer of affiliation required no action by the delegates, as it was merely the second invitation extended by the foreign body, the first having been rejected several months ago.

Offer Is "Insult."

After denouncing as "offensive and insulting" a recent communication from the international federation asking the council to reconsider its action in withdrawing its affiliation, Mr. Gompers, on behalf of the council, in a letter of rejection, said:

"In so far as our affiliation at the present time is concerned, we must repeat our former declaration, emphasizing it if possible, and await the hour at which it may be possible to fulfill our hopes of a united movement on a basis that accords with the philosophy of democracy, with autonomy for all, freedom for all, and a common goal of a better time for all the toilers and all the peoples."

Reviewing the alleged revolutionary activities and war manifestos of the international, the American labor chief further stated that American labor must "decline to accept your declarations and proclamations as truly expressive of the sentiments of the whole trade union movement of Europe."

"Ku Klux" Brings Uproar.

The convention was thrown into confusion when several delegates by objections denied the Negro delegation permission to introduce a resolution condemning the "mob violence" of the "Ku Klux Klan or White Caps" of the south.

President Gompers had great difficulty in restoring order, as nearly a score of delegates jumped from their seats and demanded the names of the delegates who had objected.

He declined to give the names of the delegates. As the confusion increased, President William Hutcherson of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners arose and said:

"If you want to know who the objector is—it is I."

Preacher Gets Ovation.

One of the greatest ovations ever given a speaker in a federation convention was given to the Rev. G. S. Lackland of the Grace Methodist Episcopal church of Denver, who discussed the "duty of the church to labor."

"The dense ignorance of the other side will win the fight for labor," he declared, outlining alleged attempts by business men and others to suppress the church investigation of the tramway strike in Denver last summer.

"The pulpits of America have been pleading for the women and children of Belgium," said Mr. Lackland. "Why, in God's name, do they not plead for the women and children of America?"

MAYOR'S JOKERS IN COUNCIL PUT OVER GOOD ONE

Aldermanic adherents of Mayor William Hale Thompson "delivered" yesterday by enveloping the Riverview ticket scandal in a thick coat of white wash.

Ald. Scott Hogan, chairman of a subcommittee of the council committee on schools, fire, and civil service, reported to the committee that no evidence was obtainable substantiating the charges made before the city council by George Maypole that civil service employees were forced to buy tickets to the Lundin-Thompson fete at Riverview park.

Can "Find No Evidence."

Ald. Maderom, Albert Devereux, Thompson Republicans, and Ald. Dennis A. Horan, known as one of the "Thompson Democrats" because of his consistent support of administration policies, were the members of the subcommittee which could find no evidence of ticket sales.

After making the report Chairman Hogan admitted frankly that the subcommittee had held not a single meeting on the resolution referred to it, and that not one city employee of the thousands whose money paid for Riverview tickets and subscriptions to the Republican, the mayor's paper, was called before it. Ald. Albert said they investigated "individually."

Evidence of ticket selling was so plentiful during the judicial campaign that on one occasion seven city employees asked a Tribune reporter within a half hour to "let the public know how the civil service employees are being held up." For days the desk of nearly every department head was laden with stacks of tickets and subscription books.

Letter to Brundage Recalled.

The sale of tickets by Lundin-Thompson leaders is referred to as follows by the Civil Service Reform association in a letter to Attorney General Brundage requesting him to "institute criminal proceedings" against the ticket and subscription sellers:

"We do not recall, and our records fail to disclose, any time since 1883 when such gross violations of the civil service law have been committed as these which we are now calling to your attention."

VOTE ON BRITISH STRIKE TO BE COUNTED TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LONDON, June 16.—The labor situation in England has become cleared up greatly, although the nation is not yet out of the woods as to strikes and unemployment. The engineers' trouble has been postponed for a fortnight, with every prospect of a settlement and the cotton workers have settled their disagreement, except for ratification by the rank and file, which is said to be certain.

The turning point in the coal miners' strike may come tomorrow, when the union executives meet in London to receive the reports of the ballot by the men.

ALD. LYLE WANTS $1,500 A YEAR AS 'SECRETARY HIRE'

Urges That Step to Raise Holdovers' Pay.

Ald. John H. Lyle wants the taxpayers to give him $1,500 a year for "secretary hire," he announced last night at a meeting of the city council finance committee.

The committee had before it the proposition of increasing the pay of the holdovers elected this year from $2,500 to $5,000, as directed by the city council last year after the voters had approved the fifty ward bill.

Opposes Raise for Holdovers.

Giving the holdover aldermen any increase was opposed as they had been elected to serve for $2,500. Lyle moved that these holdovers—there is one of them—be given $1,500 a year for the hire of secretaries. Kostner opposed it. "Aw, be a good fellow," said Lyle. "Well, John, if you got the $1,500, would you hire a $1,500 secretary?" asked Ald. Woodhull.

Lyle rather evaded the question, saying he paid his present secretary $40 a week.

Threatens to Tie Up Budget.

"Unless you fellows put this secretary motion in," Lyle declared, "I'll tie up the budget until hell freezes over. I'll fight it on the floor of the council until the sergeant at arms removes me by force. If necessary I'll get taxpayers to file suits so you fellows won't get your $5,000."

It was agreed that Lyle should withdraw his motion and several aldermen would support him on the council floor. The $5,000 recommendation passed. Then Lyle demanded a roll call and had his vote recorded as against the increase.

FAMILY CAN DINE AT NICKEL EACH, MEAT MAN SAYS

A meat meal for a family for a nickel apiece.

That is the cheerful word sent out yesterday by John T. Russell, president of the Meat Council of Chicago. In a statement Mr. Russell asserted a good, wholesome, nutritious meat meal for a family of five can now be purchased by a thrifty housewife at a total outlay of not to exceed 25 to 30 cents.

"It is the aim of the Meat Council of Chicago to advise the consuming public of changes in market conditions, to enable the housewife to obtain the most advantageous meat bargains," Mr. Russell said.

He gave this advice: "Go into any retail meat store and demand the best grade of frankfurters, running ten pieces or links to the pound. The total cost should not exceed 30 cents. This will give each member of the family two good sized sausages. Other grades can be bought still cheaper. On account of present industrial conditions, sausages have slumped heavily from former levels, and the housewife now has a rare opportunity to buy at bargain prices."

MOTHER BRAVES JAIL RATHER THAN PAY DEBT TO SON

"I'd rather go to jail than pay my son's debts," Mrs. Sarah Fitzgerald told Judge Henry Horner yesterday.

"I shall be most glad to accommodate you," the judge politely replied. He ordered that Mrs. Fitzgerald be held in jail until she agrees to pay her son's debts. The son's wife claims there is $1,200 due him as his share of the amount paid the mother after a street car accident, in which both were hurt when he was.

"The whole trouble started when Tom started going with me," said the younger Mrs. Fitzgerald, who is a daughter of State Representative John Paul. Neighbors near her home at 4051 Bernard street say that she is wealthy. During the eighteen months he was overseas he sent her every cent he was paid.

The young couple live at 4037 Kimball avenue.

FARM AND GARDEN BY BANK RDWAY

LATE ROASTING EARS.

Sweet corn planted within the next few days will produce roasting ears that will be ready to use by the last of August or the first of September. In the best planned gardens sweet corn is planted every ten days or two weeks from the middle of May to the middle of September. The gardener who makes only a single planting early in the season is fortunate if he has roasting ears more than two weeks, for ripening in midsummer, as they do, the kernels soon harden.

Sweet corn started now gets a quick start, grows rapidly in warm weather, and develops under ideal conditions. Usually there is more space for the late crop after many early vegetables have been harvested, and, too, such ground is in ideal condition for corn to germinate in.

Never plant sweet corn in a single row. No matter where planted or what the variety, the best results come if corn is planted in squares in one corner of the garden. Every grain must be fertilized, and the square system of planting makes it possible for the wind to distribute the pollen more freely and evenly over the silks, thus insuring the cob will be completely covered with kernels.

In planting late, when the surface is fairly dry, see that the kernels are planted deep enough to come in contact with moist dirt. Unless the soil is heavy, plant the seed about two inches

SAYS HOSPITALS BARRED MAN WHO WAS NEAR DEATH

Patient Dies, Doctor Makes Charges.

The circumstances surrounding the death last night of Frederick W. Collett, a consulting engineer of Cambridge, Mass., who died in Butler sanitarium in Evanston, will be explained to a deputy coroner this morning.

According to statements yesterday by Dr. D. P. Barry, who was present when Mr. Collett died, his life might have been saved if two north shore hospitals had not refused aid to the patient.

Mr. Collett had been living in Evanston for some time. He was found on the floor of his bedroom in Evanston by John F. Gail, another engineer. Mr. Gail called Dr. Barry, who hurried to the sick man.

Dr. Barry's Story.

"He will die unless we get him to a hospital immediately," Dr. Barry said. According to Dr. Barry's story he then called the Evanston hospital, explained the situation, and was informed there was no room there for additional patients.

"I explained to the man in charge that the man was dying; that it was an emergency case, and that an X-ray must be made immediately," Dr. Barry said. "They refused to take him in. I then called St. Francis hospital, where I was met with another refusal. They said they had no room."

Takes Man to Negro Institute.

Dr. Barry took the patient to the only other available hospital, the Butler sanitarium, an institution for Negroes. There is no X-ray equipment there. Mr. Collett died after an hour. Evanston hospital is supported in part by public subscription. L. Day Perry is the superintendent.

"Why, Dr. Barry did not tell me it was an emergency case," Mr. Perry said last night. "Had he told me I would have taken the patient in willingly. But he didn't tell me, and I merely told him I had no room at present for a patient."

A woman who said she was the nurse in charge at St. Francis hospital, and authorized to make official statements, refused to discuss the case.

Young Moorehead was married yesterday to Miss Constance Campbell Bennett, 22 years old, of New York, at Greenwich, Conn.

"We heard Wednesday that they were going to get married," Mrs. Moorehead said.

SOMEBODY IS ALWAYS TAKING THE JOY OUT OF LIFE

MEN ARE LIKE THAT

BY CLARA E. LAUGHLIN

XVII. SALLY MEETS HER FATHER.

There was no dearth of excitement in Sally's life these days, while she waited to see her father, and she hoped that her mother might attribute the eager expectancy she could not control to the plans about London and "Uncle Sam's Girl." Mrs. Baird suspected that there was some other cause for it, and was desperately afraid that it was Jim. She was haunted by the fear of an elopement.

When, on the Saturday afternoon following the house party, Sally declined a matinee invitation from her librettists, on the ground that she had a motorizing engagement, her mother entered upon an agony of apprehension lest this be it. She wanted to remonstrate; but Linda intervened.

"I tell you, mother, you can't do it, and if you try there'll just be mischief come out of it."

Sally felt the unspoken protest; but nothing was said. She had her glorious afternoon and evening in the country with Jim, and came back radiant.

Breakfast, Sunday morning, her mother, obviously relieved to see her returned to her familiar place, said: "Mrs. Fairweather phoned yesterday afternoon and asked us for luncheon today, Sally. She's having some London people, who only arrived here yesterday; and as soon as we found they could come, she asked us. Wasn't it sweet of her?"

"I'm so sorry, mommy," Sally began, distressedly; "but I can't. I have another engagement."

"Sally! And I accepted for you! Of course I didn't know it. I didn't know it myself, until yesterday afternoon," Sally replied.

"I suppose it's with that man," Linda shot a warning look at her mother.

"It is not with Jim, if that's what you mean," Sally said with dignity. "He has nothing to do with it."

"Then I'm sure that you can beg off—just say that I made this important engagement for you, not knowing you would make another before I had a chance to tell you. Any right minded person will understand, and excuse you."

Sally shook her head. "I can't—please don't ask me," she begged.

Mrs. Baird's eyes flashed. "I don't know you, Sally!" she cried. "You never used to be like this. I should think you'd realize, yourself, how changed you are, and know what makes you so."

Linda made violent signals to avert a storm. Sally interpreted them, even better than her mother did. And as soon as she decently could, she got away to her room on some pretext, and left them to discuss what they should do.

About twelve o'clock she came downstairs dressed for the street in her blue tricot with the touches of Copenhagen blue suede about it and the jaunty tricorn of matching blue.

"Are you going out without a wrap?" her mother asked.

"I thought I could, mommy, dear—it's so warm, and I'm not going far. I have this blue wool scarf with me."

"I'd wear my coat," Millie protested; "it may turn cold any minute. And you can't afford a cold, now."

Sally put on her coat.

"Thank Mrs. Fairweather for me," she said, "and tell her I'm sorry it happened this way."

"You'll have to do that for yourself, my dear. Of course we have sent our regrets."

"Oh, I'm so sorry!"

There was no reply—only looks of resignation. "Always, always the culprit feeling," Sally reflected, resentfully, as she closed the street door behind her and sped on her way.

She had not far to go—through her cross-street to Fifth avenue and down that thoroughfare into which church crowds were beginning to pour, until she came to a quiet residential hotel to which few transients went. There she asked for Mrs. Blake of Syracuse, and a moment later was directed to her grandmother's suite.

"Well, well," she exclaimed. "Isn't all this exciting? Mother, here's Sally."

Sally cast one quick, rather frightened look in the direction of her grandmother Blake. Then she was at that little lady's side, in a flash of glad, quick motion, and kissing her, a bit hysterically.

Grandmother Blake's eyes were brimming, but she had good control of herself and of the situation, none the less. "Stand off a bit, and let me look at you, darling," she said, tremulously; "then we'll go on with our kissing."

Sally obeyed.

"Elizabeth said you were like the little ivory type of me when I was about your age," grandma said, surveying her. "I think Elizabeth's kind to her mother. You're a wonderful young person to find, all of a sudden, like this. You were only eight, the last time I saw you. And Linda was thirteen. Elizabeth says Linda has a nice little boy."

Elizabeth slipped away and left them together. In the bedroom she entered a man was standing by one of the avenue windows, looking out on the church parade and seeing it not at all.

At the sound of the door opening he turned his head quickly, betraying a nervous expectancy. Sally slipped her arm in his. She could feel him trembling.

"In a minute," she said, softly. "Mother'll send her in. She patted his arm, reassuringly, and then left the room by the door which opened directly on the public hall.

Just as Sally gripped the back of a chair and held it to her, as if only so could she support herself. All the strength seemed to have gone out of her limbs; the bones in them to have turned to water. He hadn't realized it would be like this.

Timidly the door to the drawing room opened; and a second later his little girl was folded in his arms—folded so close it seemed as if she never could get away again.

While Sally and her father talked in an easy reunion which no one had the heart to break in upon until luncheon, served in the drawing room, was getting ruinously cold, Linda returned home from following Sally.

"She went to the Buckingham hotel," Linda reported, in excitement beyond her power to control. "I waited a couple of minutes, and then went in cautiously. She was nowhere to be seen. So I asked to see the register—thought maybe that would give me some clue."

"Did it?"

"It did! Grandma Blake is there and Aunt Elizabeth—"

Linda paused, perhaps for dramatic effect, perhaps because she was more than a little fearful how her mother would receive the culminating news. "I waited a couple of minutes, and then went in cautiously. She was nowhere to be seen. So I asked to see the register—thought maybe that would give me some clue."

"Yes!" she said.

"And below Aunt Elizabeth's signature, there was—"

Justus P. Baird, Tucson, Arizona."

Lightning flashed from Millie Baird's dark eyes. "They're up to something!" she cried, tragically.

Every Day He Asks Five
Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

What do you think of the new style that calls for longer skirts?

Where Asked.

Madison and Dearborn streets.

The Answers.

Anna McLaughlin, 531 Millard avenue, telephone operator—

—Skirts a trifle longer would be more pleasing to part of the public, but I don't like them.

Short skirts, you know, make the men look longer. However, if the styles grow longer the skirts will be just as popular with us as the shorter ones.

Trude Davis, 6204 North Hermitage avenue, stenographer—

There is a limit to all things, of course, but for myself I like short skirts. It depends a good deal upon who wears them. You understand, don't you?

Lillian Mitchell, 6152 Stewart avenue, advertising solicitor—

Short skirts are wonderful. I love them. They say that fewer accidents are happening among the girls on account of them. I guess the men are filling the hospitals now.

May F. Wiley, 4426 Washington boulevard, private secretary—

For my part I am heartily in favor of short skirts for young girls. But when it comes to wearing socks with them I maintain that only those with dimples on their knees should attempt it.

Gladys Scott, 3328 West Congress street, stenographer—

If they don't make skirts too long, everything will be all right. The long ones are not sanitary and cause a lot of accidents—and they are harder to press.

DRIVER DENIES ZIEGLER BEAT MRS. ORTHWEIN

Chauffeur Tells of Spat; Says Woman Was Drunk.

Attempts by Attorney Benedict Short, counsel for Mrs. Cora Orthwein, charged with the murder of Herbert P. Ziegler, to show by the testimony of a state's witness, that Mrs. Orthwein was one night thrown from Ziegler's automobile and beaten by Ziegler while he was intoxicated failed in Judge Francis Wilson's court yesterday.

The witness was Edward Nelson, former chauffeur for Ziegler.

Nelson declared he used to call in the morning with Ziegler's automobile at apartments at 48th street and Vincennes avenue, where he said Ziegler lived with Mrs. Orthwein. He said Ziegler had a key to the apartment at that time and Mrs. Orthwein had the use of the car.

Trips to Roadhouse.

"Did you ever take Ziegler and Mrs. Orthwein out at night?" he was asked. "Yes, about five nights a week," he replied, mentioning cabarets and road houses in and near the city.

"Did you take her and Ziegler to Dell's, a roadhouse northwest of the city, one night?" he was asked on cross-examination.

"Yes," he replied.

Q—Did they have a quarrel that night? A—Yes.

Q—How did it start? A—Ziegler had had a fight in Dell's with a man who bumped into him on the floor, and Mrs. Orthwein said something to him about it.

Ziegler Didn't Hit Her.

Q—Did Ziegler hit her? A—No, sir. Q—Did he put her out of the automobile? A—No, sir. She asked to get out.

Q—Did he curse her? A—No, sir. He never talked that way. She called him a name, though.

Q—Didn't he push her arm through a window and cut her? A—No, sir. Q—Wasn't her hair and clothing disordered? A—No.

Q—What did you notice about her? A—She was drunk.

The answer was stricken out. Q—When this other automobile came along and picked her up, you followed it and stopped it, didn't you? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Didn't Ziegler strike Mrs. Orthwein then? A—No, sir. He had a fight with one of the men in the car, but he didn't punch him.

Just before this testimony Nelson had told of a threat Mrs. Orthwein made to kill Ziegler if he attempted a reconciliation with his wife and daughter.

"She told me she had forbidden him to go home to his wife and family," Nelson testified. "She said if he did go home to his wife and family she would kill him. She said I should let her know and she would not tell him that I had told her, but would say that some other woman had told her."

"Did you ever take Ziegler home to his wife?"

"Yes. The last time was about three weeks before he was killed."

Woman Tells of Bribe Offer.

During the testimony of Mrs. Kocher it was brought out that a man claiming to be a representative of Attorneys Short and Gutherer visited her and offered her money to testify in court.

"He was a tall fellow, bald-headed, and wore a straw hat," Mrs. Kocher testified. "He said he came from Gutherer & Short's office."

"Have you seen that man since that offered you any money? Did I ever offer you any money?" asked Attorney Short.

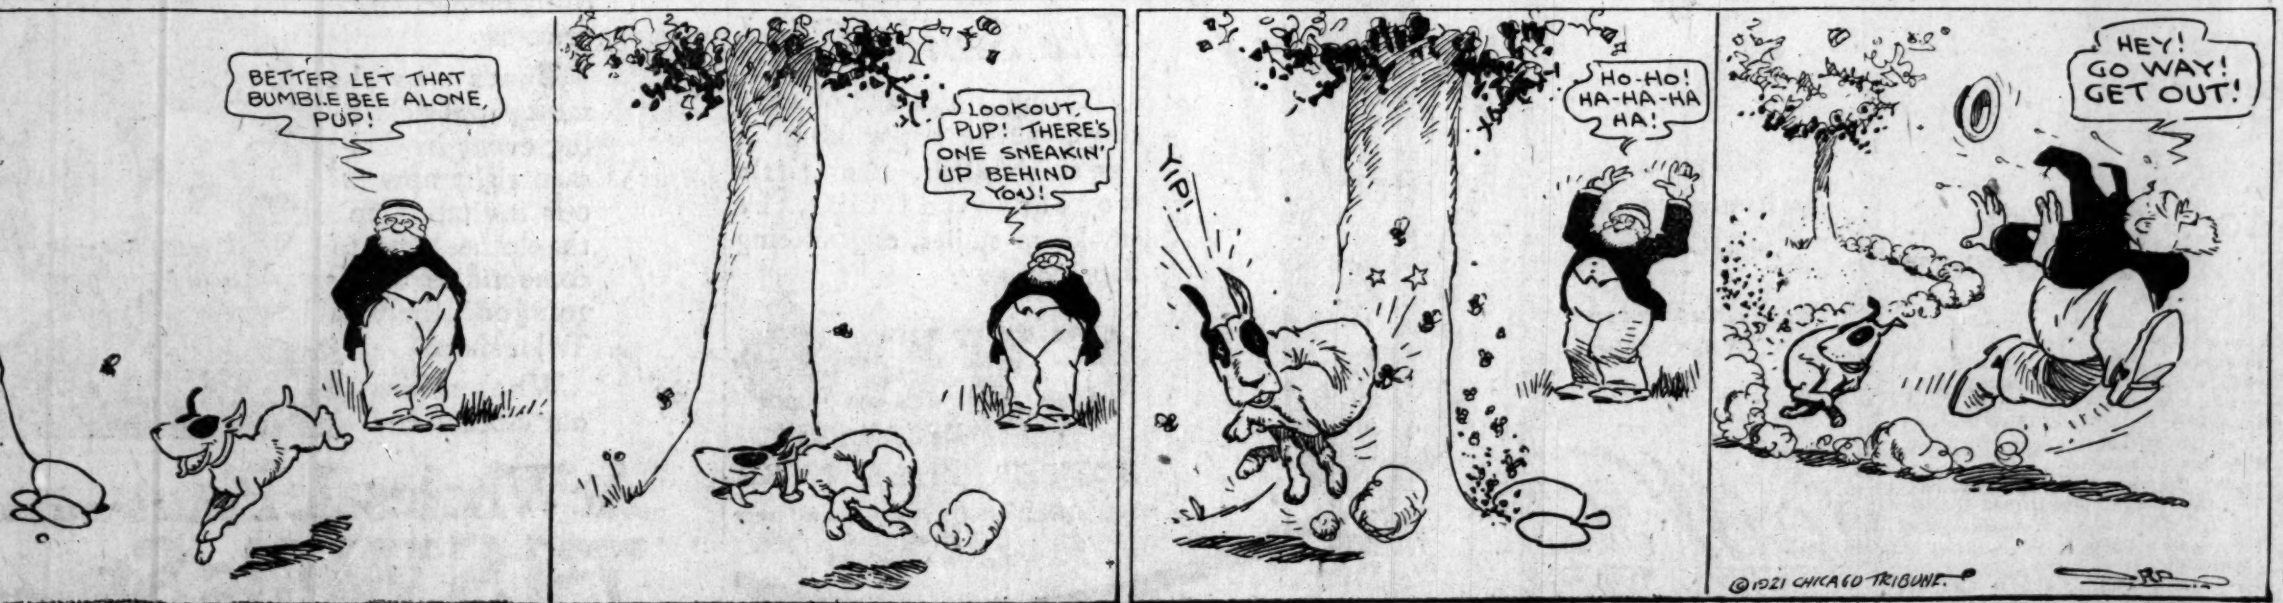

"One of your representatives came." Q—This man told you he would give you money? You said this man offered you money and said I sent him? A—He did.

Q—Did he tell you I was going to pay you money? A—He said Mrs. Orthwein.

Q—Did he say how much money she was going to pay you? A—Yes, sir. And I told him I wouldn't testify for anybody for any money; I would tell nothing but the truth.

Mrs. Kocher is a state's witness. Later, on redirect examination, Mrs. Kocher testified she had not seen State's Attorneys Heath or Hodges or the policemen present in the room previous to one hour before being called to the witness stand.

The male scarlet tanager is a strikingly beautiful bird. His brilliant colors attracted the attention of the most disinterested persons. In spite of this he is amazingly little known; dozens of times every year we are asked to identify the "bright red bird with black wings and tail."

The relative abundance of birds varies with the season, locality, and the observer. It is interesting to speculate on the abundance and scarcity of certain species. Last year we mentioned a scarcity of big birds; something we have also noted this spring. Observers in other localities, however, found these dainty little gen- erae mentioned a scarcity of big birds.

So far we have noted an unusual number of the following: wood peckers, juncos, mourning doves, cowbirds, robins, sparrows, blue jays, orioles, and phoebes. House wrens, bobolinks, meadow larks, and chipping sparrows were fewer. How does this check up with your observations?

JACK OUTSTEPS 2 LIGHTWEIGHTS IN DRILL FOR SPEED

BOYS, BE CAREFUL!

HACKENSACK, N. J., June 16.—A threat that there would be no Dempsey-Carpentier fight in Jersey City on July 2 if the New Jersey boxing commission could not have the privilege of naming the referee was made tonight by Commissioner Doherty.

Commissioner Doherty said a serious situation had arisen as a "certain party" believed he should have the privilege of naming the referee. No names were mentioned.

State Senator Alexander Simpson, who also was present, declared if the commission did not show backbone in sticking up for its rights and name the referee, the next senate would repeal the New Jersey boxing law.

The referee probably will be chosen on Monday.

BY RAY PEARSON.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 16.—[Special.]—Jack Dempsey showed something this afternoon, at something that would have been a shock to the many people who harbor the impression that Georges Carpentier is going to step out in the Jersey City ring July 2 and carry the world's championship at such a dazzling speed that it will land him in the limit of the contest.

Ever since coming to this effort east we have been a revelation to some of which has heavily favored the man from France. These fellows who are sweet on the chances of Georges figure he can travel at such a pace that Jack won't be able to catch him in twelve rounds, and in figuring that way they throw Dempsey's punching power into the discard.

Outspeeds Patsy Cline.

We saw Dempsey today, who, as he returned to boxing for the final strenuous stretch of training, opened up speed that was a revelation to some 500 fans who each coughed up a smacker to visit the camp.

No brother, after watching this stepping today, don't set in the bank roll that the dimpled champion is going to work "the dogs" at a pace too fast for Jack Dempsey to keep up. Or for that matter his fists in addition to the aforesaid dogs.

For the first time he had in many days, Dempsey donned the headgear and tackled a couple of light speed merchants, these being Irish Patsy Cline of New York, who notched about 85 pounds, and Lase Herman of California, who is a featherweight. Cline was fast enough, but Dempsey out-traveled him, and a couple of times in the second round session Jack slammed heavy punches to the chin, although he was making no effort to wear out Cline was forced to hug for recovery.

Real Speed with Herman.

But it was Herman who made it possible for the champion to display his real speed. Babe had his instructions and moved like a Man of War, but Dempsey was right then, wallow and in and out and shifting, Dempsey "hit it up," and it is hard to see where the man has been when he could get away from him.

Everything that Jack Dempsey did today smacked of speed. He resembled the fellow we saw getting ready to knock over Jess Willard two years ago. If he was any better than he is today, we miss him on our guess. He boxed four rounds in all. Then the sparring partners entertained the gang with another four rounds, Herman and Cline boxing two rounds, and Dempsey and Ghee clouting for another two.

Everybody around Atlantic City is waiting for tomorrow, and the explanation is that this colored chap Battling Ghee of Memphis is going to have his first introduction to the champion. Ghee is a merry, carefree gent, who believes in himself to the steepest degree.

Today he permitted his views of Dempsey's hitting to escape, remarking that Dempsey couldn't hurt him with his hooks.

But tomorrow is sure to come and folks around here see ahead the opening, or more exactly the closing, of Battling Ghee's eyes. The news of this clash will appear tomorrow.

Squabble Over Referee.

It begins to look here as if there would be a big squabble before the referee question is settled. Jack Kearns is not doing any talking.

Politics undoubtedly will cut a considerable figure. It is understood that Harry Ertle, who is a New Jersey man, is the political choice and that the commission will back him strongly.

HALF OF FIGHT TICKETS SOLD

New York, June 16.—[Special.]—Tex Rickard estimates that between thirty and thirty-five thousand people have purchased tickets for the Dempsey-Carpentier bout, making the advance sale somewhere in the neighborhood of $300,000. When completed the arena will seat 60,000. That approximately one-half of the capacity of the big wooden bowl has been sold.

I. A. C. Lacrosse Team to Play Canadian Club July 2

The lacrosse team of the Illinois Athletic club and the Canadian club will play their first game of the season on July 2 at White City. This is the first time in a number of years that the I. A. C. has had any local competition in this great summer game which is so popular in the eastern colleges.

The I. A. C. team is practicing Tuesday and Thursday evenings and Sunday morning in Grant park.

Filipino Team Defaults Match in Davis Cup Play

New York, June 16.—The Philippines Davis cup tennis team, scheduled to play Japan in the first round, has been forced to default because of inability to reach the United States before July 30, it was announced here today.

THE GUMPS—LITTLE CHESTER AT BAT

PLAY OR WORK, IT IS ALL SERIOUS STUFF WITH CHAMPION JACK

BY ROBERT EDGREN.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 16.—[Special.]—Jack Dempsey put in yesterday with a round of posing for the pictures. That's the first section of the moving pictures of the fight training camp scenes.

Like all movie posing, it wasn't taken seriously by anyone but Dempsey. Jack doesn't know how to slapstick even for the pictures. They don't take him seriously in any one but Dempsey. Jack doesn't know how to slapstick even for the pictures. They don't take him seriously in any one but Dempsey.

Training Easier than the Movies.

To Jack training for a ring fight is play beside this picture stuff. Mostly Jack had to wear white flannels and look pretty, telling the cook how to fix his training dinner.

The cook is William Mallinger, and he's the only one in the camp with a grouch. He's sore because he hasn't had an answer yet from his challenge to Henri Marcot, who fixes the pate de foie gras for Carpentier.

Mallinger wants to meet Marcot in a mixed preliminary to the big fight, boxing four rounds and cooking an eight course dinner against time on a stove set up in the middle of the ring. He says he has a thousand dollars to bet that he can trim the Frenchman at his own game.

Kearns Puts It On.

Jack Kearns bought a new pair of shoes to go with his white ducks in the pictures. "The tops are of white glazed elastic fox skin and the soles of white elephant hide and they cost Jack more than the new set of tires for his automobile. With those shoes on he looks nifty enough to be managing an Indian maharajah.

The camp is all worked up over the stories that a boxer on Dempsey's staff got into a scuffle. Funny thing, Dempsey is the cleanest living heavyweight champion we ever knew, but when anything happens somebody blames it on him. The gent who tried to tip over a bunch of waiters never got nearer to Dempsey's camp than the outside gate, and Dempsey wouldn't have known him from the street sweeper if he'd seen him. Teddy Hayes was telling me about that. He almost wept.

Early to Bed and Early to Rise.

"Jack is the quietest fellow I ever knew," says Hayes. "Here he is in bed every night at 9 or 9:30. In his own training quarters a mile out of town, and they start stories he's seen patrolling the boardwalk. He's up at 6 every morning and gets the rest of us out of bed, always full of pep and fun.

"This morning he woke me up by hitting me with a pillow and told me to hop into some clothes because he was going to the city for a short hike before the crowds come here. He always goes away from town so that he won't meet people. And say, strict! Why, yesterday I was riding downtown with him in the big car. Jack driving and I nodded and waved my hand to be polite."

"What's that?" asks Jack quick. "They seemed to know us," says I. "I just waved back."

"Nothing like that," says Jack. "Cut it out."

FRENCH EDITOR DOUBTS GEORGES IS IN GOOD SHAPE

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.] PARIS, June 16.—An editor writing under the name of "Iron Mask" in the Figaro this morning states that he learns Carpentier was knocked out by Journee during the training bouts on Monday.

Georges and Journee were boxing heatedly when suddenly, following a rapid exchange of blows during the lightning, Carpentier dropped and was unable to rise. Several persons carrying cameras immediately snapped the scene with the challenger lying down, scarce with the challenger lying down.

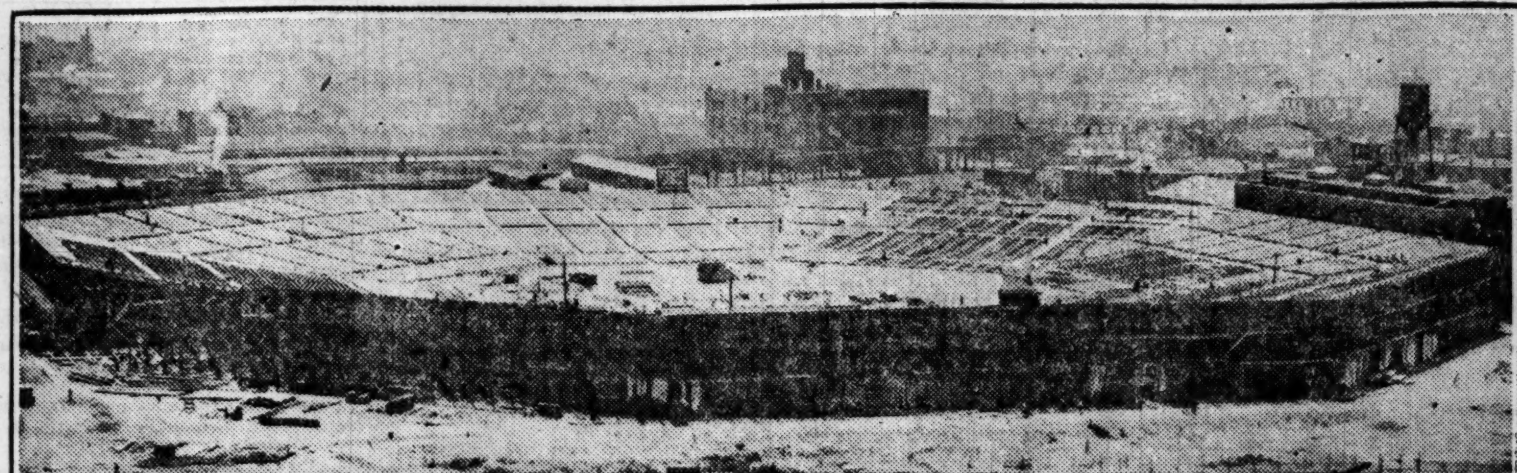

Carpentier soon recovered himself and arose. Seeing the photographers he became enraged and insisted on the destruction of all plates in every camera.

"With the bout three weeks off is Carpentier so fragile?" asks "Iron Mask." "Lucky blows can always beat a man, but we hope Carpentier will be able to escape a similar blow from Dempsey."

Harrison Park Tennis Meet Billed for Tomorrow

The Harrison Park Tennis club will hold its annual singles tennis tournament for men and women at the club courts, 18th and Wood streets, tomorrow afternoon starting at two o'clock. The entry list totals 101 players, of which seventy-nine are men.

HAVE TEX DUST OFF THE SEAT, BOYS!

Rickard's huge arena, on Boyles Thirty Acres in Jersey City, where the great international heavyweight championship battle will take place on July 2, is expected to be completed by next Tuesday. The arena, it is claimed, will hold 60,000 fans, and according to the vast advance sale every seat will be taken. The arena as shown here is about 95 per cent complete.

TEX RICKARD expects to have completed next Tuesday an arena and grand stand in Jersey City capable of seating 60,000. If he doesn't get it filled with spectators when Dempsey and Carpentier meet in their world's championship battle, July 2, it won't be because Chicago's fight fans have failed to respond.

Those in charge of special trains to be run out of Chicago in time to land the bugs at the ringside estimate the Chicago attendance at close to 1,500. All these, however, will not go east on the special trains, hundreds having purchased tickets with the intention of motoring down, or of going several days before the fight and returning at their leisure.

Chicago's delegation will probably be one of the most representative, as to profession and calling, that ever was gathered together. City hall and county building politicians, down-state Republicans and Democrats, board of trade men, stock brokers, physicians, druggists, men around town, and fight men of every occupation will be on the job.

One enterprising train promoter several days ago announced he was to have on his special men of every profession in the city. He was doing duty in that direction. The next day James S. Bradley, an undertaker, came around to the promoter's offices and bought a ticket, declaring he did not want his time honored and essential calling to go without a representative at the biggest fight of all.

Every inducement to attract the fans to the fight has been used by those getting up special trains. Song boosters, photographers, and jazz bands will be a part of the equipment on some of the trains.

Joe Coffey and Harry Moir are running one special. Jim Mullen and Al Bloom are running another, and Nate Lewis another.

Doe Krone, known to loop frequenters for his opulent ways, has arranged with the New York Central to make up a duplicate of the famous Twentieth Century Limited, and is running a twenty hour business men's special, which will leave Chicago the afternoon of July 1 and get the fans to New York the morning of July 2, where they will be housed in the Hotel Commodore over the night of July 2 and then brought back to Chicago in time to celebrate the Fourth with their families.

Many out of town fans have engaged reservations on the trains running out of Chicago. Krone boasting parties from Kokomo, Ind.; Madison, Wis., and as far west as Seattle.

Reservations on the Bloom-Mullen special will be taken up not later than June 25, according to Al Bloom. So many requests for fight and train tickets are being received that those not called for on the above date will be sold to other parties. Bloom asserted he has $10,000 at his place of business, 129 North Dearborn street, which he will wager against $4,000 that Dempsey is the victor.

Lewis Institute Awards Letters to Ten Track Men

Lewis Institute awarded letters to the following members of the track team:

The first event tomorrow will start at 2 o'clock. Reserved seats will sell for $1.50 and general admission at $1.

ILLINOIS RELAY TEAM GOING TO COAST VIA AUTO

Urbana, Ill., June 16.—Arrangements were completed today by Illinois stadium committee and the university track authorities to send the champion four mile relay team to the Pacific coast by auto to compete in the National A. A. U. games at Pasadena on July 2.

The team, with one exception, will be the same which won the championship at the Penn relay.

Captain-Elect Howard Yates, Dave Brown, Gordon McGinnis, and Patterson were chosen by Coach Gill. They will leave Chicago Saturday afternoon immediately after the intercollegiate meet on Stagg field.

Boxes With Lightweight.

Marcel Denys, the French lightweight, was the first chosen to mix it with the French champion. During what was more, he didn't care a tink-er of whoop who he was.

The sponsor for Brennan finally drew a diagram of William engaged in a fight with Jack Dempsey, and that was more, he didn't care a tink-er of whoop who he was.

Brennan was reluctantly given in and Bill Brennan landed inside the sacred portals of Carpentier's fighting quarters. Brennan is now pulling for Georges and his gang with some slight reverse English.

Carpentier went through some real training stunts today while half a dozen movie cameras shot him at every twist. The faster those picture shooters worked the speedier Carpentier stepped about. Any time those picture sharks get the head on the French boxer you always see some real action.

JOE BURMAN OFF FOR BOUT WITH SHARKEY AT NEW YORK MONDAY

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Joe Burman, matched to meet Joe Lynch, bantamweight champion, in the main bout of the Twin City A. C. of East Chicago on June 28, left yesterday for New York City, where he is scheduled to meet Jack Sharkey in a ten round contest on Monday night.

The local bantam worked out yesterday morning at the Arcade and imparted a little information to his friends. Joe asserted he will do his best to win Monday night's fight, but intends to take no chances with his hands. He is anxious to have his maulers in good shape for the Lynch fight because he firmly believes he has a good chance to stop the champion and thereby win the title.

Sure to Beat Lynch.

"I have met Lynch three different times," Burman said. "I know his style of fighting and if I get the opportunity I believe I can stop one for the count. With all my friends around the ring, I know I will fight better."

There seems to be a growing desire among local fight fans to see the little fellows in action. Tickets for the East Chicago show, which are on sale at Bloom's, 128 North Dearborn street, and Oakes', 153 North Clark street, are in great demand, and indications point to a capacity crowd.

Promoter Harry Hyams yesterday announced Lynch will finish his training in Chicago and will work at the Arcade for the greater part of next week.

Freedman Selects Trainer.

Sailor Freedman, local lightweight matched to meet Benny Leonard, king of the 133 pounds, in the main bout of Floyd Fitzsimmons' show at Benton Harbor on the afternoon of July 4, made a flying trip to the battle ground yesterday to make final arrangements for his training quarters. The fighter was accompanied by Manager Hirshey Miller, who said Jack Blackburn, local Negro trainer, will have charge of putting his fighter in condition.

Jimmy Kelly, west side bantam, who will swap punches with Frankie Mason of Port Wayne in the semi-windup, will work with Freedman as will Edie Mahoney, Sammy Fraser, and Johnny Allen. Sailor will work at the Arcade today and leave tomorrow at 1:30 o'clock, Chicago time, from the Grand Central station, where his friends will give him a sendoff.

Promoter Fitzsimmons has placed tickets on sale at 129 North Dearborn street, 153 North Clark street, and 3216 West Roosevelt road.

MILBURN TAKEN ILL; MAY DELAY OPENER OF POLO

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.] LONDON, June 16.—Devereaux Milburn, captain of the American polo team, has been sick in bed for two days with severe pains in the back. Milburn's condition is believed to be serious, and is causing some alarm. There is just a possibility that the game on Saturday may be postponed until Wednesday.

BY FLOYD GIBBONS.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.] LONDON, June 16.—Single grandstand tickets for the first game of the international polo series between America and England on Saturday at Hurlingham are selling for as high as $100 in American money. The scheduled prices are from $5 to $50 a seat, but speculators have begun to take advantage of the demand which has increased greatly during the last week.

King George, King George, who will witness the match from the royal enclosure, probably will have as his guest King Alphonse of Spain, who is expected to arrive in London some time tonight.

Yankee Followers Gather.

Many American Rotarians are coming to London for their Edinburgh convention to cheer the Yanks to victory, while other American fans are arriving from Paris and Brussels via air routes. As many of Gen. Allen's cavalry officers as can obtain leave from their posts on the Rhine also will attend.

The youth and fire of Tommy Hitchcock Jr.'s playing already has caught popular attention. Tommy will be the youngest player in the games. He is 22 years of age. In the war Tommy was only 17 when the American army refused to accept him, but he came to France and joined the Lafayette flying squadron and was flying his pursuit plane after the Germans long before the American flyers reached the front.

Webb Also in War.

Watson Webb, America's No. 2, was an artillery captain in the 79th division, which carved its name forever in the slopes of Montfaucon during the bloody Argonne offensive.

Devereaux Milburn saw service in France with the 78th division and won a citation which he hides from interviewers as if it were a criminal record.

YOU must take this picture at its face value to enjoy it. You can't analyze it. You can't look into it. It is farce pure and simple. It is perfectly ridiculous. There's no sense to the plot. What is done, couldn't be done—and there you are. BUT, if you just want to laugh and don't care what you laugh at, "One a Minute," which means sixty fools born an hour, will qualify as well as anything on the silver screen at the present time.

Behold, then, ye star as a young druggist that the affluent Mr. Rogers, owner of a chain of drug stores, offers to buy out for $2,000. Mr. Knight, which is the y. d. name, is on the point of joyfully accepting, when in blows the daughter of the affluent one. He has met Miriam before and knows that she adores strong men of high ideals. So he draws back the hand held out to accept the check and announces in loud tones:

"Never! I will fight you to the last ditch!" (Good fellow stuff, eh?)
What to fight with? What to fight with! From out the everlasting nothing comes an idea to strike our Jimmy on the head. His paternal ancestor, deceased, had up to the time of his death, been on a still hunt for a panacea that would cure all ills. Knight Jr. decides to announce the finding of the formula. He mixes up some ginger, Phil's Earth, charcoal, and pepper and the Centerville Leader comes out with an extra.

The ones born every minute flood the place and are miraculously cured. The rival drug store is rival in name only. The affluent father of the beautiful Miriam has the strange powders analyzed and puts Mr. Knight in the hands of the law. But when in court even the judge, stricken with a sudden tummy ache, takes a powder and immediately feels like a 3 year old right in front of the jury, what would you? And then, of course, Mr. Knight cannot be made to say what is the fifth ingredient.

So—witness the ambitious young man selling out to his father-in-law prospective for a million and a half. And the fifth ingredient turns out to be—Faith!
Isn't it silly? Sure! But the nonsense is well turned out—and you know what I told you at the beginning?

CLOSEUPS

The press agent for Miss Prevost writes me a courteous letter, and incloses a photograph showing the young woman burning some pictures of herself, some film of herself and, they tell me, a bathing suit that once inclosed her. Pictures are proof. We hereby beg his pardon for the inference contained in the word rail spelled backward.

In his coming picture Charlie Chaplin will play a double rôle. The name of the production has been changed from "Vanity Fair" to "The Idle Class." And is Charlie working to finish it so he can go to the big prize fight? He is!

"The Conquering Power," adapted from Balzac's "Eugenie Grandet," will be the next picture directed by Rex Ingram.
"Christine of the Young Heart" will be Gladys Walton's next picture. The scenario is based on the novel by Louise B. Clancy.

The adored Conway Tearle has just completed a picture with Zena Keefe entitled "Ye Shall Pay."

HAROLD TEEN—GREAT STUFF!—IF ONE DOES IT!

THE TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Whipping Cream in Summer.
To whip cream in summer it is necessary to put the strainer in which it is to rest, and perhaps drain—if it is not whipped dry—the bowl which is to rest under the strainer, the tea cup in which we will whip the cream, the turbine egg beater, and the cream itself on ice for a time.

It is not necessary to take any of these precautions in winter, in whipping small amounts, except that of having the cream chilled. But in summer with every whisk of the beater we have put into the cream a lot of warm air, often considerably above seventy degrees warm, and this tends to keep cream liquid.

Because the warm air is so soon distributed through a cream, it is best to take but a small portion at a time to whip. The amount of air required to make this stand up stiff is small, and the cream chills it before it can warm the cream. Quite the opposite thing happens when an attempt is made to whip, say, a cup at a time.

It does not take any longer to whip a cup of cream, three tablespoons at a time, than it does to attempt to whip it all at a time. Under favorable conditions the three tablespoons will be stiff in half a second or sooner. Put that in the strainer, and whip the next three tablespoons. I never use a whipping preparation.

When we learn to make the most thrifty use of cream we shall find that I had just presented my nephew with a pair of suspenders, and then taken him to the show. The picture was interesting and I supposed Ted as interested as myself.

Suddenly he broke the silence by saying: "Aunt Betsy, those suspenders are just dandy. They hold my pants up fine."

I am afraid the audience forgot the picture for a moment. M. K. R.

"Why, you can't wear this bright red vest at a funeral," his mother, when everybody wears black.
Standing straight before his mother, he replied with great determination: "If I can't wear my red vest then I won't have any fun in the whole funeral!" H. M. G.

DORIS BLAKE'S ANSWERS

No Reason to Quarrel.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am in love with a young man, whom my best friend also is in love with. She was the one to introduce me to him, but at the time I didn't know she cared so much for him. I am afraid this will break our friendship, which I don't want to happen. Will you please advise me what to do."
"ELIZABETH"

Better not break the friendship until one of you has reason to believe she has his heart for keeps. He might fly away the some new pastures, and leave you two young maids without one another to console with. In other words, you are crossing bridges long before it is time.

You Are Wrong.

"Dear Miss Blake: We are boys of 17 and 16, and like two girls, 16. We have invited them out several times alone, but they refuse unless we take them both together. Are we right to keep asking them should we stop. We would rather go out in separate couples. JAMAICA."

It is much better that the 16 year old girls do not go out alone with young men—rather, there should be a foursome at least.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

HELEN S.: A GOOD DEPICATORY may be applied to remove hair on legs and arms. The following is satisfactory: Sulphur of barium, 3 drams; oxide of zinc and starch, each 3 drams. Mix these well and keep tightly corked. When you apply it, keep it sufficient water to make a paste. The paste is spread over the part and allowed to remain on for a couple of minutes. Wash it off and apply a cold cream or soothing ointment. There will be resulting irritation. Generally you can get rid of the hair on legs on long enough by a slight burning sensation.

THEA: IS IS TRUE, SOME shampoos will do that. You better not wash your hair so frequently. Once in two weeks is frequent enough for dry, thin haired folk. Once a week for excessively oily hair. Send s. a. e. and I will send you treatment for enlarged pores.

READER: THE VALUE OF THE rubber garments for reducing is in the perspiration they provoke, which is good in itself, but the moment you give up their wearing the trouble returns. You have to harness the muscles with exercise, and work against an early return.

Speeding Him Home.

I told my wife on evening that I had invited a friend, Mr. Brown, for Sunday dinner. This was on Friday. Mr. Brown and I had to work for an hour or two every Sunday, and on this particular evening, I was already at my desk when he came in.

I looked up and said, "It seems to me somebody is mighty dressed up today."

He smiled, but did not say anything. When we were through our work we boarded a street car and I happened to pay the fare. On arriving at the street where my friend always got off I handed him a transfer and said good-by.

When I arrived home the first thing my wife wanted to know was where Mr. Brown was. I had absolutely forgotten, until that instant, that I'd invited him to have Sunday dinner with us.

I exclaimed, "O goosh, and he was all dolled up, too."

She insisted that I go right out to his house and bring him back with me. Of course I had to go, but it was the only thing for me to do. It was a most embarrassing situation, for when I reached there he was just sitting down to his own family dinner. It was no easy matter to square myself with him and finally persuade him to return with me.

MISS MAZIE RUSSELL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Russell of 7238 South Shore drive, was married to Harlow Clay Dunbar on June 8 at St. Philip Xerri church, the Rev. William Kin-sella officiating. A breakfast and reception at the residence of the bride's parents followed the ceremony.

The only course not presented in the form of gallery tours is the one in interior decorating, which is a definite text book course, designed to teach the housewife the principles of decoration so that she will not be at the mercy of a good looking girl who dresses well and calls herself an interior decorator, while violating every canon of good taste and common sense.

Mrs. Hall is presenting a special course for business girls Saturday afternoons at 2:30. The girls with the "best taste," says Mrs. Hall, "get a much better job, whatever her line, than the girl with poor taste. We realize that girls who work are tired Saturday afternoon and we do not make the course too academic and stupid. We take a vote each lesson and study just what the girls wish."

The commencement exercises of the Art Institute art school will take place this afternoon in Fullerton hall at 2:30 o'clock. Over fifty students will receive diplomas. Several prizes are to be awarded. The most important prize is the William M. R. French memorial prize of $1,000. Two others of interest are the John Quincy Adams scholarship of $425 and the American Traveling prize of $125. The names of the successful students will be announced from the platform.

The principal address of the afternoon will be delivered by Dr. Melvin A. Brannon, president of Belmont college. Immediately following the exercises the opening of the school exhibition in the east galleries of the institute will take place.

Mrs. Hall Resumes Instruction to Help Laymen Enjoy Art

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES.

FOR too many of us the Art Institute is merely a shelter for the passing parade. It can, however, be made a vital force in the life of the ordinary layman who knows nothing of the technical study of art, if he will avail himself of courses in the museum instruction department, founded by Mrs. Herman J. Hall in 1913 and resumed this summer by her after a year's absence.

Praxiteles, Rhodius, Lysippos—they will become more than unpronounceable names. Never again will the frieze of the Parthenon be mistaken for a cooling liquid refreshment. No longer will "chiaroscuro" be defined as "the name of a great Italian painter."

The courses, which started the first of June, meet once a week from 10:30 to 12, and there is a different type of course every day in the week. Textiles, modern color work, painting, drawing, sculpture, architecture, all these subjects are presented in gallery tours, which are intensely practical.

The only course not presented in the form of gallery tours is the one in interior decorating, which is a definite text book course, designed to teach the housewife the principles of decoration so that she will not be at the mercy of a good looking girl who dresses well and calls herself an interior decorator, while violating every canon of good taste and common sense.

WHEAT IN SHARP DECLINE AFTER EARLY ADVANCE

BY CHARLES D. MICHAELS.

Wheat crop reports were sufficiently bullish to make the trade buy early in covering the previous day's sales, but the failure of outside support to develop in sufficient magnitude to hold the early advance brought a collapse. Selling of unusual volume developed which carried prices of all grains down and made a comparatively tame close. Net losses on wheat were 4 1/2¢ for July and 1/2¢ for August, while the price of the strong spot to unload, it was said that the heavy sales have cleaned up the bulk of the holdings, which leaves the market in better shape to respond to any strong buying that might develop on sensational crop news. The wheat went largely to a few leading houses that were short. One of the largest of the local operators who sold on the bulge became a buyer on the break.

The knowledge that black rust is present in the spring wheat in Minnesota and South Dakota is regarded as sufficient reason for caution in making sales of wheat futures. Whether it will develop sufficiently to damage the crop materially is dependent upon the weather. Traders on the whole regard it too early for serious crop damage, but there are many who say that crop and weather conditions in the northwest should be watched closely. For the present, however, operators are buying on weak spots and selling on sharp bulges like that of yesterday.

Gulf premiums on hard winter wheat are 31¢ over Chicago July for June loading, with 27¢ over for first half July, and 16¢ over for the last half. First half of August is 13¢, and last half 11¢ over July. No. 2 red is 20¢ over Chicago July, with 16¢ over for shipment first half July, with no business reported.

Lake rates are off 1/2¢ for corn to Buffalo. The steel steels are laid up owing to the stagnation in the ore trade, twenty-two steamers and barges at Duluth are laid up as they are unable to get loads. This is throwing more boats into the grain trade than usual under charter to take all available tonnage this month and for a part of July.

Buying Movement Boosts Prices.

A buying movement started which carried prices up 1/2¢ for July and 1/4¢ for August, and the largest local came in and the buying seemed satisfied. A break of 3¢ on July and 6¢ on August followed. The big selling was by houses with eastern corn, and it was attributed to local and eastern longs who have been active on the buying side of late. It carried prices down to stop order limits and the break from 11 1/2¢ down to 10 1/2¢ for July and 10 1/4¢ for August. The wheat was absorbed on the break by local shorts and seaboard exporters.

Corn and oats were strengthened by the advance in wheat. The markets were overvalued and the covering sent prices up sharply with July corn at 64 1/2¢ and September at 64 1/4¢, while oats were up to 35 1/2¢ for July and 35 1/4¢ for September. The close was at real reactions from the top.

Rye broke 5 1/2¢ on futures, with wheat and on selling by local operators.

Provisions Weaker.

Provisions weakened with moderate trading. Export business is fair and really larger than appears on the surface. One packer said sales of small lots are the largest in months. It was said that Germany has paid out $5,000,000 in advance of its being due, showing that it has credit at the seaboard. Hogs were lower and product in the face of fair selling finished at losses of 10¢ to 15¢ on lard and 2 1/2¢ to 3¢ on ribs. Prices followed:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Most of the wheat sold yesterday was bought last week, which was largely responsible for the advance. Holders were largely eastern operators who have taken advantage of the strong spot to unload.
